Science Experiments Reading Comprehension

Science experiments are a way to test a hypothesis or to discover the answer to a question. They are a way to learn about the natural world and to understand how things work.

The process of conducting a science experiment is usually designed to test a hypothesis. A hypothesis is a statement that can be tested by an experiment.

The first step in conducting a science experiment is to identify the problem. The next step is to identify the variables that will be tested in the experiment.

After the experiment is conducted, the results are compared to the hypothesis. If the results support the hypothesis, the hypothesis is accepted. If the results do not support the hypothesis, the hypothesis is rejected.

Science experiments are a way to learn about the natural world and to understand how things work. They are a way to test a hypothesis or to discover the answer to a question.
