psychical phenomena could have quantitative properties at all and could thus be measured The fact that psychometric structures shown for verbal item judgements can also be produced by semantic and Artificial Intelligence AI algorithms e g ChatGPT without collecting any empirical data Still most quantitative psychologists seem fairly unconcerned about the strong reliance on everyday language e g in ratings scales and the imprecise concepts of psychological measurement perhaps because their consequences do not become as straightforwardly apparent as in other disciplines such as in physics chemistry and medicine where imprecise measurement can entail the collapse of buildings chemical explosions or drug overdoses But where does the loose jargon around measurement variables and psychometrics go seriously wrong in psychology These and further contradictions problems and challenges underlying established quantitative practices in psychology must be addressed to tackle the discipline s continued crises and to develop new approaches that are needed to advance psychology as a science We invite from all fields contributions that critically explore and open up new perspectives on the foundations of quantification and measurement in psychology including perspectives still hardly considered e g qualitative mathematics complex dynamic systems fuzzy systems modelling machine learning We are also interested in methods for generating quantitative data either executed by persons e g time based observations computer based coding or by automated technology e g ecological momentary monitoring life logging reality mining However other than commonly done we are explicitly not seeking proposals for improving specific techniques of data analysis e g statistical or latent variable models Instead our focus is on making explicit and scrutinising the implicitly underlying rationales and fundamental principles thus the theory philosophy and methodology on which quantitative research in psychology currently is or should be built in the future This also includes critical views on whether or not quantitative investigations are meaningful at all for a science exploring behaviour mind and society and thus also contributions to the psychology sociology and philosophy of science in this field
