Running Walking And Jumping The Science Of Locomotion:

Running, Walking and Jumping Anne Innis Dagg,1977 Energetics of Human Activity William Anthony Sparrow,2000 Energetics of Human Activity provides a detailed contemporary discussion of the efficiency of movement from a multidisciplinary perspective The text explores the process by which humans optimize their energy expenditure in learning and controlling movements As the first collaborative text that focuses on the energetics of motor coordination and control Energetics of Human Activity is written by 24 international researchers in the movement sciences including noted experts from the fields of psychology physiology and biomechanics This presents the reader with a broad range of opinions and research findings Collectively the chapters discuss three topics of interest from a movement economy perspective individual differences motor learning and the control of action The hypothesis that minimization of metabolic energy expenditure is a universal constraint on the structure of emerging movement patterns is also presented by three movement subdiscipline perspectives These approaches include the mechanics of human motion the physiological cost of meeting task demands and the effects of practice on performance Each chapter provides a systematic basis for examining metabolic energy expenditure presents the research findings that support the contention that energy expenditure regulates the development of movement patterns and makes valuable suggestions to stimulate future research The text also contains more than 100 figures that are clear and easy to interpret making the information simple to understand Energetics of Human Activity is a unique text that provides a complete perspective on metabolic energy expenditure from various disciplines It is an invaluable resource for movement science professionals Biomechanical Basis of Human Movement Joseph Hamill,Kathleen M.
