Universities in Change Andreas Altmann, Bernd Ebersberger, 2012-09-10 Universities find themselves in dynamic change They are confronted with growing expectations from their stakeholders increasing international competition and new technological challenges Featuring insights and in depth case studies from leading researchers and university decision makers from around the world this book argues that institutions of higher education in order to be successful have to actively reflect on circumstances visions and strategies to master the future Drawing from their experiences across a diverse array of institutions in Europe Asia and the Americas the authors explore the pressures on today s universities and the opportunities for excelling in the contest for resources They discuss operational issues such as strategic management IT governance leadership development and entrepreneurial culture and broader concerns such as the roles and responsibilities of universities in promoting technology transfer and economic and social development The result is a resource that not only reveals and analyzes universities from an organizational perspective but presents best practice models and concrete inspiration for management and policymaking

Cybersecurity Discussion Cases T. Grandon Gill, Cybersecurity affects us all every business school and citizen This book a collection of discussion case studies presents in depth examinations of eleven cybersecurity related decisions facing managers and researchers It is organized around the common cybersecurity framework Identify Protect Detect Respond and Recover It also includes two cases that specifically involve education These cases place the reader in the position of the decision maker featured in each case None of them have a right answer Instead they are specifically designed to 1 Serve as the basis of discussion either in an formal educational context and as part of an industry training program 2 Help participants refine their judgment skills allowing them to make better decisions when encountering similar contexts in their future career

Ranking Business Schools Linda Wedlin, 2006-01-01 In her admirable book Wedlin entangles what business school rankings really are and why they have become so important The book contains plenty to interest the growing army of business school employees whose duties at least in part are concerned with boosting their institution s position in the rankings Education and Training In times when the management education field is increasingly impacted by a proliferation of ranking exercises this book is a timely and welcome contribution Linda Wedlin unpacks for us the real meaning of the contemporary explosion of rankings Rather than simple classification schemes and mechanisms rankings are she suggests arenas where the field of business education is being created and re created They are the loci of boundary work whereby a field is progressively evolving and constituting itself This is a convincing study relying on rich empirical data and carefully anchored in relevant theoretical debates A must read for all those academics students policy makers and education professionals who want to understand the complex contemporary logics of higher education in management but also probably well beyond Marie Laure Djelic ESSEC Business School Paris France League tables appear everywhere and have become important aspects of business school environments Based on in depth and creatively combined

empirical studies Linda Wedlin provides us with explanations and insights on the emergence and impact of such rankings This book should be of great value for all those who seek to play the ranking game It gives a fresh perspective on how classification mechanisms drive the emergence boundary setting and change of organizational fields Kerstin Sahlin Andersson Uppsala University Sweden A fascinating study of the complex issues surrounding MBA rankings Business schools really hate them but at times have to pretend to love them Magazines and newspapers are really interested in their sales potential but have to make pretensions about their veracity Linda Wedlin focuses on an area rich in hypocrisy and hype but also one where there are real consequences ranking furthered re inforces the homogenising tendencies of MBAs Anthony Hopwood Sa d Business School University of Oxford UK This is a most fascinating topic dealt with in a manner which is both serious and entertaining everyone in a business school would want to read it Linda Wedlin s excellent research is presented with a no nonsense approach if there is anything worth counting she counts it and then interprets it no fuss Exemplary Barbara Czarniawska G teborg University Sweden This engaging book offers a fresh perspective on the burgeoning field of European management education and its intense concern with rankings Using a creative mix of well crafted research tools Wedlin deftly captures a professional field in transition as it both expands and develops shared standards Walter W Powell Stanford University US International comparisons and rankings of universities and business schools have proliferated in recent years Ranking Business Schools provides a welcome analysis of this development and its implications for the field of management education theorizing the role of classifications such as rankings in forming and structuring organizational fields Focusing on the European experience with rankings and the subsequent response the book illustrates how business schools use rankings to form identities and positions and to draw boundaries for the field By both creating and confirming belonging to a business school community and providing distinction within that group rankings are important for defining an international field of management education organizations constructing an international business school market and constitute an arena for debating and establishing the boundaries of this field Building an extensive theoretical framework for understanding classification

Like Nobody's Business Andrew C. Comrie, 2021-02-23 How do university finances really work From flagship public research universities to small private liberal arts colleges there are few aspects of these institutions associated with more confusion myths or lack of understanding than how they fund themselves and function in the business of higher education Using simple approachable explanations supported by clear illustrations this book takes the reader on an engaging and enlightening tour of how the money flows How does the university really pay for itself Why do tuition and fees rise so fast Why do universities lose money on research Do most donations go to athletics Grounded in hard data original analyses and the practical experience of a seasoned administrator this book provides refreshingly clear answers and comprehensive insights for anyone on or off campus who is interested in the business of the university how it earns its money how it spends it and how it all works
