Parliament. House of Commons. Energy and Climate Change Committee, 2015 Energy price comparison websites play an important role in helping consumers to make informed decisions about switching energy supplier In order to fulfil this role the websites must be trusted by consumers and be fully transparent about the service they provide In the last year there has been growing criticism about the way in which some of these comparison websites operate The Committee has been alarmed by suggestions that some comparison websites have been hiding the best deals from consumers by concealing tariffs from suppliers that do not pay the website a commission The Committee concludes that all deals should be made available by default to the consumer and strongly objects to any attempt to lure consumers into choosing particular deals by the use of misleading language The Committee also recommends that as an immediate and essential first step towards rebuilding confidence compensation should be provided to those consumers who were encouraged to switch to a tariff that was not the cheapest or most appropriate for their needs      Wholesale Prices, Wages, and Transportation United States.
