Hiding Mark C. Taylor, 1997 For Mark C Taylor the disappearance of depth we sense all around us is a change full of creative possibility Taylor introduces us to a popular culture in which detectives the postmodern heroes of Paul Auster and Dennis Potter lift surfaces only to find more surfaces and in which fashion advertising plays transparency against hiding He looks at the current preoccupation with body piercing and tattooing and asks whether these practices actually reveal or conceal The limitless spread of computer networks the history of phrenology the religious architecture of Las Vegas all are brought within the scope of Taylor's brilliant analysis Postmodernism he shows has given us a new sense of the superficial one in which the issue is not the absence of meaning but its uncontrollable ecstatic proliferation Rewiring the Real Mark C. Taylor, 2013-01-22 Digital and electronic technologies that act as extensions of our bodies and minds are changing how we live think act and write Some welcome these developments as bringing humans closer to unified consciousness and eternal life Others worry that invasive globalized technologies threaten to destroy the self and the world Whether feared or desired these innovations provoke emotions that have long fueled the religious imagination suggesting the presence of a latent spirituality in an era mistakenly deemed secular and posthuman William Gaddis Richard Powers Mark Danielewski and Don DeLillo are American authors who explore this phenomenon thoroughly in their work Engaging the works of each in conversation Mark C Taylor discusses their sophisticated representations of new media communications information and virtual technologies and their transformative effects on the self and society He focuses on Gaddis's The Recognitions Powers's Plowing the Dark Danielewski's House of Leaves and DeLillo's Underworld following the interplay of technology and religion in their narratives and their imagining of the transition from human to posthuman states Their challenging ideas and inventive styles reveal the fascinating ways religious interests affect emerging technologies and how in turn these technologies guide spiritual aspirations To read these novels from this perspective is to see them and the world anew

Who Said English Grammar Was Boring? Francis A. Andrew, 2017-10-20 The world of education is full of grammar books For most teachers and students of foreign languages grammar books are generally dry and dusty and only to be consulted on a reference basis However Who Said English Grammar Was Boring is not your conventional grammar book Its core dynamic is based upon a conversation between the author and an English language instructor colleague Apart from being an exposition of English grammar the book also incorporates advice on teaching methodology and practice exercises for students Apart from focusing on the four key areas of language learning reading writing listening and speaking the book introduces another concept in the form of a practicum which asks the students to take turns in giving a lesson to their classmates on what they have learned It is hoped that this book will serve to take the monotony out of grammar learning

God, the Gift, and Postmodernism John D. Caputo, Michael J. Scanlon, 1999-12-22 Pushing past the constraints of postmodernism which cast reason and religion in opposition God the Gift and Postmodernism seizes the opportunity to question the authority of the modern and open the limits of possible experience including the call to religious experience as a new millennium approaches Jacques Derrida the father of deconstruction engages with Jean Luc Marion and other religious philosophers to entertain questions about intention givenness and possibility which reveal the extent to which deconstruction is structured like religion New interpretations of Kant Heidegger Husserl and Derrida emerge from essays and discussions with distinguished philosophers and theologians from the United States and Europe The result is that God the Gift and Postmodernism elaborates a radical phenomenology that stretches the limits of its possibility and explores areas where philosophy and religion have become increasingly and surprisingly convergent Contributors include John D Caputo John Dominic Crossan Jacques Derrida Robert Dodaro Richard Kearney Jean Luc Marion Frangoise Meltzer Michael J Scanlon Mark C Taylor David Tracy Merold Westphal and Edith Wyschogrod
