Education for the Professions in Times of Change Linda Clarke, 2020-12-02 The eminent Harvard educationalist Howard Garner writes a preface to the Place Model within his Good Project Blog which provides a preface to this timely book Professional is a slippery term open to willful abuse misuse and misunderstanding as evidenced by the ways in which this chameleon term can be used as both a compliment and an insult In this book academics from a range of professional fields deconstruct professional and reimagine professionals in an age of rapid change where professionals are both increasingly in demand and frequently under threat Several deploy the lens of Clarke's Place Model to examine professions including teaching midwifery social work journalism and optometry Some papers are empirical and some are based around using the Place Model as a thought experiment All turn a critical eye on professionals and all find them to be like all humans neither devils nor divines Maya Angelou but at their best a combination of two indispensable characteristics trustworthiness and expertise

Rethinking Policing and Justice Luis Fernandez, Laura Huey, 2014-07-16 It has become somewhat axiomatic to refer to the police as the gatekeepers of the criminal justice system and thus as a mechanism for the provision of justice And yet when we conceptualize the police in this way what is often taken for granted is the exact nature of that role and its larger social meaning Indeed we know that police deliver justice more efficiently to some and injustice to others Rethinking Policing and Justice critically examines the role of policing both state and non state forms in the provision of justice and injustice In essence it presents work that highlights how different communities and groups have sought alternatives to policing sometimes taking over the functions of policing It also shows a variety of theoretical methodology and other approaches for the critical evaluation of law enforcement highlighting different insights into alternative modes of policing as we seek to understand and redraft the relationship between policing and justice This book was originally published as a special issue of Contemporary Justice Review
