Seagulls Don't Fly Into the Bush Alice Pomponio,2000      Saltwater Sociality Katharina Schneider,2012 The inhabitants of Pororan Island a small group of saltwater people in Papua New Guinea are intensely interested in the movements of persons across the island and across the sea both in their everyday lives as fishing people and on ritual occasions From their observations of human movements they take their cues about the current state of social relations Based on detailed ethnography this study engages current Melanesian anthropological theory and argues that movements are the Pororans predominant mode of objectifying relations Movements on Pororan Island are to its inhabitants what roads are to mainlanders on the nearby larger island and what material objects and images are to others elsewhere in Melanesia

Mangrove Man David Lipset,1997-11-13 The first modern ethnography of the Murik a relatively large and important community settled on the Sepik River estuary in Papua New Guinea      Doing Fieldwork W. Fife,2005-09-16 Making use of his own research experiences in Papua New Guinea Southern Ontario and Newfoundland Wayne Fife teaches students and new researchers how to prepare for research conduct a study analyze the material e g create new social and cultural theory and write academic or policy oriented books articles or reports The reader is taught how to combine historic and contemporary documents e g archives newspapers government reports with fieldwork methods e g participant observation interviews and self reporting to create ethnographic studies of disadvantaged populations Anthropologists Sociologists Folklorists and Educational researchers will equally benefit from this critical approach to research      Small Islands in Peril? Colin Filer,2024-07-11 This book explores the idea that small island communities could be regarded as canaries in the coal mine of sustainable development because of scientific and anecdotal evidence of a common link between rapid population growth degradation of the local resource base and intensification of disputes over the ownership and use of terrestrial and marine resources The authors are all anthropologists with a specific interest in the question of whether the economic and social safety valves that have previously served to break some of the feedback loops between these trends appear to be losing their efficacy While much of the debate about economy society environment relationships on small islands has been overtaken by a narrow focus on the problem of climate change the authors show that there are many other factors at work in the transformation of island lives and livelihoods      American Anthropology in Micronesia Robert Kiste,Mac Marshall,1999-03-01 This text evaluates how anthropological research in the Trust Territory has affected the Micronesian people the US colonial administration and the discipline of anthropology itself It analyzes the interplay between anthropology and history in particular how American colonialism affected anthropologists use of history and examines the research that has been conducted by American anthropologists in specific topical areas of sociocultural anthropology The text concentrates on disciplinary concerns but also considers the connections between work done in the era of applied anthropology and that completed later when anthropology was pursued mainly for its own sake      Bibliographie Internationale D'anthropologie
