Pay And Employment In The New Europe:

The Dynamics of Wage Relations in the New Europe Linda Clarke, Peter de Gijssel, Jörn Janssen, 2012-12-06 The debate on The Dynamics of Wage Relations in the New Europe is an offspring of a research project on Disparities in Wage Relations and the Reproduction of Skills in Europe. At a meeting of the advisory committee for this research held at the University of Westminster in London on 14th November 1994 it was decided by Linda Clarke, Jörn Janssen, Henryk Lewandowski, Philippe Mehaut, Patrick Rozenblatt and Frank Wilkinson to set up a larger international committee to develop a programme and seek funding from the European Commission for a symposium of experts on wage relations. This committee of ten scientific experts was formed and invited to a number of meetings throughout 1995 and 1996 by DG V of the European Commission in order to develop a programme and proposal for a symposium to take place in 1997. Eventually the proposal formally submitted by University of Westminster, London, University of Maastricht, Netherlands, Fachhochschule Dortmund, Germany and University of Osnabrück, Germany was accepted by the European Commission in May 1996. Additional funding was then obtained from the Hans Bockler Stiftung and the Dutch Organisation for Scientific Research, allowing in particular participants from Central and East European countries to be invited. The subject of wage relations as a central issue of European social policy was intended to be tackled in an open debate between scientists and policy makers, the latter as individual experts rather than representatives.

Wage bargaining under the new European Economic Governance Guy Van Gyes, Thorsten Schulten, 2015-09-28 Within the framework of the new European economic governance, neoliberal views on wages have further increased in prominence and have steered various reforms of collective bargaining rules and practices. As the crisis in Europe came to be largely interpreted as a crisis of competitiveness, wages were seen as the core adjustment variable for internal devaluation, the claim being that competitiveness could be restored through a reduction of labour costs. This book proposes an alternative view according to which wage developments need to be strengthened through a Europe-wide coordinated reconstruction of collective bargaining as a precondition for more sustainable and more inclusive growth in Europe. It contains major research findings from the CAWIE2 Collectively Agreed Wages in Europe project conducted in 2014-2015 for the purpose of discussing and debating the currently dominant policy perspectives on collectively bargained wage systems under the new European economic governance.

Pay and Employment in the New Europe David Marsden, 1992 European economic and monetary union creates a new environment for pay determination. The Single Market will boost competition in many sectors and the integration of European capital will transform patterns of labour relations and pay fixing. Written by a distinguished group of authors from across the Community, this important new book deals with the key issues of pay and employment, wage differentiation within the Community, firms' location decisions, centralised pay bargaining and lower inflation, new payment systems to boost productivity and pay and unemployment in Southern Europe. The conclusion accepts the likely benefits of the Single Market but argues for pay policies to help labour markets adapt. This means greater co ordination of economic policies and measures to prevent an increase of inequality that could threaten the Community s cohesion It stresses the need for nationally differentiated policies that enable all member countries to succeed within the Single Market
