The American Peace Movement and Social Reform, 1889-1918 C. Roland Marchand, 2015-03-08 The history of the peace movement in the United States was one of dramatic change in the mid IKWs it consisted of a few provincial societies by 1912 it had become eminently respectable and listed among its members an impressive number of the nation s leaders by 1918 it was once again weak and remote from those who formulated national policy Along with these fluctuations went equally substantial changes of leadership and purpose that as C Roland Marchand emphasizes reflected the motives of the various reform groups that successively joined and dominated the movement Most of those who joined were not devoted solely to the cause of world peace but saw in the programs of the movement a chance for the fulfillment of their own more immediately relevant goals Consequently the story of the peace movement reflects the concerns of such groups as the international lawyers who wanted a world court of arbitration as an alternative to war the business leaders who believed that international economic stability would be endangered by war and the labor unions who felt that the working class suffered most in war Originally published in 1973 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
