Prehistory Topography Of Southwark L:

The Prehistory and Topography of Southwark and Lambeth Jane Sidell, 2002 This volume provides the first synthesis of the available prehistoric and topographic information from the area of north Southwark and Lambeth London in the period c 9500 cal BA to c AD 50 The authors consider the interplay between environmental and riverine change and mobile and settled human communities They draw on recent unpublished data as well as published work including a Mesolithic camp adjacent to a Late Glacial lake in Bermondsey a burnt mound and ring ditch with an assemblage of cremations and preserved ploughmarks The book incorporates an account of the succession of the palaeoecological environment and the prehistory of Southwark and Lambeth is set in the wider regional context of the Thames Valley The thematic chapters are supported by a gazetteer of all findspots of prehistoric material and specialist reports on the worked flint pottery and radiocarbon determinations

The Prehistory of Britain and Ireland Richard Bradley, 2019-05-16 Highlights the achievements of prehistoric people in Britain and Ireland over a 5 000 year period

Alluvial Archaeology in Europe Andrew J. Howard, M.G. Macklin, D.G. Passmore, 2003-01-01 This book documents and assesses over ten years of research in the field bringing together expertise and knowledge from the disciplines of archaeology and geomorphology and highlighting important recent advances discoveries and new directions Reflecting the wide scope of current research in this area the book contains over twenty papers focusing on various aspects of alluvial archaeology from the methodology of dating prospecting excavating etc to previously under analysed geographical areas such as intertidal wetlands

London in the Roman World Dominic Perring, 2022 This original study draws on the results of latest archaeological discoveries to describe London's Roman origins It offers a wealth of new information from one of the world's richest and most intensively studied archaeological sites

Londinium: A Biography Richard Hingley, 2018-08-23 Winner of the PROSE Award 2019 for Classics This major new work on Roman London brings together the many new discoveries of the last generation and provides a detailed overview of the city from before its foundation in the first century to the fifth century AD Richard Hingley explores the archaeological and historical evidence for London under the Romans assessing the city in the context of its province and the wider empire He explores the multiple functions of Londinium over time considering economy industry trade status and urban infrastructure but also looking at how power status gender and identity are reflected through the materiality of the terrain and waterscape of the evolving city A particular focus of the book is the ritual and religious context in which these activities occurred Hingley looks at how places within the developing urban landscape were inherited and considers how the history and meanings of Londinium built upon earlier associations from its recent and ancient past As well as drawing together a much needed synthesis of recent scholarship and material evidence Hingley offers new perspectives that will inspire future debate and research for years to come This volume not only provides an accessible introduction for undergraduate students and anyone interested in the ancient city of London but also an essential account for more advanced students and scholars      The Origin of Roman London Lacey M. Wallace, 2015-01-08 In this book Dr Wallace makes a fundamental contribution to the study of urbanism in the Roman provinces She attempts for the first time to present a detailed archaeological account of the first decade of one of the best excavated cities in the Roman Empire Delving into the artefact and structural reports from all excavations of pre Boudican levels in London she brings together vast quantities of data which are discussed and illustrated according to a novel methodology that address both the difficulties and complexity of grey literature and urban excavation      Transactions of the London and Middlesex Archaeological Society London and Middlesex Archaeological Society, 2005 Contains the Society's proceedings reports list of members etc      Proceedings of the Prehistoric Society Prehistoric Society (London, England), 1936      The Archaeology of Greater London Trevor Brigham, 2000 It is nearly 25 years since the last major survey of the archaeology of the London region was written In that quarter century some of the most extraordinary evidence of our past has come to light a 9 000 year old hunting camp in Uxbridge a 2 mile long prehistoric bank and ditch cursus monument at Stanwell the spectacular Roman heart of the City the Saxon trading emporium on the Strand the largest medieval cemetery excavated in Europe at Spitalfields and Shakespeare's Rose Theatre at Bankside This book completed with the substantial support of English Heritage and the City of London Archaeological Trust represents the latest and most comprehensive attempt to place these treasures in their context It also draws together the knowledge of specialists and experts to provide a framework within which future archaeological discoveries and research may be considered The result is an accessible and fascinating insight into the rich diversity of human experience that has combined over the last half million years into the metropolis of Greater London today The Archaeology of Greater London is presented in 10 period based chapters with 13 accompanying full colour maps and an extensive bibliography and gazetteer of sites and finds      Industry in North-west Roman Southwark Friederike Hammer, 2003 This volume is the second of several volumes presenting previously unpublished findings relating to Roman Southwark This looks at an extensive sequence of Roman metalworking workshops and hearths from the late 1st to late 4th centuries AD The book is split into discussions of the metalworking industry the period covered and an analysis of the finds and is extensively illustrated throughout      Excavations in Southwark 1973-1976, Lambeth 1973-1979 Museum of London. Department of Greater London Archaeology, 1988      Urban Development in North-west Roman Southwark Carrie Cowan, 2003 The river crossing and access to the River Thames were major influences on the siting of Roman Southwark where Watling Street and Stane Street converged Excavations at Courage's Brewery revealed an archaeological sequence dating back to Prehistoric times The Roman remains begin from AD 40-55 and show the development of the site from the 1st to the 4th centuries as the area increased in wealth before the occupation phase ended to be replaced with a cemetery This excavation report provides important new information about the development of Roman Southwark leading the way for further publication and research      The London Archaeologist, 2002      Roman Southwark, Settlement and Economy Carrie

Cowan,2009 Accompanying CD ROM contains selected tables CD ROM label Surrey Archaeological Collections Surrey Archaeological Society,2008 List of members The Archaeological Journal ,2004 Neolithic Archaeology in the Intertidal Zone Jane Sidell,Fiona Haughey,2007 This volume is based upon a conference which took place in 1999 reflecting the developing interest in intertidal archaeology and concentrating on the Neolithic period as well as elements of associated Mesolithic and Bronze Age archaeology Since then the papers have been revised to include new discoveries and reflect the increasing interest and importance attached to the intertidal zone All papers have supporting environmental data and radiocarbon dates The volume has a wide geographical spread and details the work of archaeologists working in fragile and rapidly eroding environments is evaluated the papers demonstrate the high quality research being undertaken around the British coast to salvage archaeology by record and undertake detailed research to place it in its proper context Towards a New Stone Age Jonathan Cotton,David Field,2004 South east England is largely devoid of impressive Neolithic monuments that characterise many other areas and has therefore not been accorded the same attention or significance However research carried out in the south east much of it developer funded has revealed new discoveries and some surprise findings as this volume demonstrates The twenty one contributions reflect some of the recent work carried out in the area and as well as looking at evidence from particular sites the authors present overviews on a range of subjects including aerial survey soils the study of human remains landscapes and environments As Richard Bradley states in the Foreword such evidence challenges the accounts of British prehistory created from data in other areas Contributors include

Investigating the Maritime History of Rotherhithe Kieron Heard,Damian M. Goodburn,2003 In the mid 17th century a timber river wall allowed occupation of marginal land The site was used as a timber yard and then developed as a commercial wharf with new waterfronts constructed in deeper water In the second half of the 18th century the Woolcombe family of shipbuilders developed a new river frontage and a wet dock In the early 19th century the Beatson family adapted the site as a ship breakers yard and built a fashionable dwelling house overlooking the wet dock and a warehouse The findings at Pacific Wharf provide important insights into post medieval woodworking techniques and other key aspects of ship building technology This concise and extensively illustrated volume documents these processes in their archaeological context providing an illuminating account of Southwark s maritime history Mapping Past Landscapes in the Lower Lea Valley Jane Corcoran,2011 Accompanying CD ROM contains archaeological gazetteer and databases CD ROM label
