Educational governance in Rwanda. Coordinating action for equity through cooperation between education providers

Zusammenfassung

Chancengleichheit ist in der Bildung einer der wichtigsten Faktoren für nachhaltige Entwicklungsziele. Trotz der quantitativen Verbesserungen beim Zugang zu Bildung in Entwicklungsländern ist die Minimierung von Ungleichheiten bzgl. des Zugangs zur Bildung – bei der Beteiligung und bei den Lernmöglichkeiten – ein wichtiger Schlüssel zur Bildungsentwicklung. Dieser Artikel befasst sich mit der Struktur der Bildungspolitik und ihren Auswirkungen auf die Chancengleichheit durch die Zusammenarbeit zwischen verschiedenen Bildungsträgern in Ruanda. Anhand einer Analyse des Bildungsgesetzes wird die Governance im Bildungswesen als ein gemischter Rahmen aus Zentralisierung und regelungsorientierter Partizipation konzeptualisiert. Offensichtlich verstärkt die Existenz von Governance-Gremien unterschiedliche Bedürfnisse und fördert somit die Bildungsgerechtigkeit. Der Artikel legt weitere wissenschaftliche Analysen und politische Überlegungen zu Bildungsgovernance und Gerechtigkeit in Ruanda an.

Abstract

Equity in education is one of key drivers of sustainable development goals. Despite the quantitative improvements of access to education in developing countries, disparities in terms of access, participation and learning opportunities are issues to be reflected in education development. The article at hand reflects the structure of educational governance and its implications to equity via cooperation between education providers in Rwanda. Through the analysis of law governing education, the educational governance is enacted as a mixed framework of centralization and compliance-driven participation. Appasently, the existence of governance bodies is likely to represent different needs and hence promote equitable education. However, this seems to be limited by conformity to central orientations. The paper suggests further scientific and political reflections on educational governance and equity in Rwanda.

Keywords: Educational Governance, Equity, Educational Provider

Introduction

The major focus of this paper concerns the reflections on the structure of educational governance and its implications to educational equity in Rwanda. Educational governance implies cooperation between stakeholders and providers. In this paper, the focus is on the cooperation between governmental and non-governmental educational providers. The relation of governance and equity in the education sector has been widely explored and the two concepts are found to have close linkage (Alan, Marko, Novelli, Valiente & Scandarra, 2016). Educational governance influences decisions related to matters of equity, especially the distribution of human resources, of financial means and of infrastructure. Moreover, the structure and functioning of educational governance in each country reflects, explicitly or implicitly, how educational needs for vulnerable groups of people are catered for. In the context of Rwanda, governance of education is reflected in three typologies of school systems: state, subsidised and private owned schools (Government of Rwanda [GoR], 2021, p. 34). In addition, governance is discussed in terms of different levels of power distribution – centralisation versus decentralisation. These links are reflected in the paper concerning equity in education.

In the context of the Rwandan education system, educational equity is mainly reflected quantitatively in terms of access, participation, and learning achievements. Educational statistics as annually provided by the Ministry of education show disparities in terms of access to pre-primary education and gender disparities where girls are underrepresented in secondary, vocational and higher education (MINEDUC, 2018/2020). In terms of learning achievement, there are inequalities between urban and rural primary schools (urban better than rural) and between school ownership, respectively higher in private, average by government-aided and lower by public rural schools (REB, 2016). Regarding financing education, there is inequality in terms of direct financing by parents between schools located in rural and urban areas. Pupils with more learning needs in rural areas are worse funded as compared to urban schools (Institute of Policy Analysis and Research-Rwanda [IPAR], 2012, p. 3). Existing data show the inequity, which is linked to the typology of schools. The law governing education in Rwanda (Republic of Rwanda, 2021)
