China's Scientific Elite Cong Cao, 2004-07-31

China's Scientific Elite is a study of those scientists holding China's highest academic honour membership of the Chinese Academy of Sciences Having carried out extensive systematic data collection of CAS members Cao examines the social stratification system of the Chinese science community and the way in which politics and political interference has effected the stratification The book then goes on to compare the Chinese system to the stratification of the US scientific elite The conclusions are fascinating not least because one national elite resides in a democratic liberal social system and the other in an authoritarian social system

A History of Biophysics in Contemporary China Christine Yi Lai Luk, 2015-05-06 This book gives a concise history of biophysics in contemporary China from about 1949 to 1976 It outlines how a science specialty evolved from an ambiguous and amorphous field into a fully fledged academic discipline in the socio institutional contexts of contemporary China The book relates how while initially consisting of cell biologists the Chinese biophysics community redirected their disciplinary priorities toward rocket science in the late 1950s to accommodate the national interests of the time Biophysicists who had worked on biological sounding rockets were drawn to the military sector and continued to contribute to human spaceflight in post Mao China Besides the rocket and space missions which provided the material context for biophysics to expand in the late 1950s and early 1960s Chinese biophysicists also created research and educational programs surrounding biophysics by exploiting the institutional opportunities afforded by the policy emphasis on science's role to drive modernization The book explores and demonstrates the collective achievements and struggles of Chinese biophysicists in building their scientific discipline

Interpreting China's Military Power Ka Po Ng, 2005-08-09 Although inter state tensions have generally been easing after the Cold War military power remains a dominant factor in Asian regional politics As China operating the world's largest army grows stronger there are ongoing debates over the implications for Asia's regional security This book argues that it is imperative to look beyond the empirical observations and conventional materialist reading of Chinese military development to understand its dynamics and directions in doctrinal terms and put it in a readiness context for evaluation Military doctrine has long been under studied and is often treated as a subject separate from force development But as this study contends this factor is necessary for interpreting the making and purposes of China's military power because it forms the intellectual foundation of military structural and hardware development When loaded with political rhetoric it also communicates to us the intended uses of the military power The role of doctrine is reinforced in the context of military readiness which defines what for and how the army is getting ready Force development is evaluated in structural operational and directional terms The importance of this analytical framework based on military doctrine and readiness is demonstrated in a survey of the evolution of Chinese military doctrine and force development As the Chinese People's Liberation Army has continued to adjust its military structure and operation to follow the doctrinal lead its switches between the doctrines of local war and total war have seen corresponding changes to the emphasis between operational and structural readiness
