

The background of the slide is a detailed woodcut-style illustration. It depicts a peasant farmer in a field, wearing a hat and a long coat, with one arm raised. The field is filled with various agricultural elements, including a large basket of produce, a plow, and other farming tools. The overall color scheme is a monochromatic reddish-brown. Overlaid on this illustration is the title 'Peasant farming in Muscovy' in a large, white, serif font. Below the title, the author's name 'R.E.F. SMITH' is written in a smaller, white, sans-serif font.

John F. Richards

Peasant Farming In Muscovy:

Peasant Farming in Muscovy Robert E. F. Smith, 1977 This comprehensive study of farming methods and agrarian organization in Russia before the time of Peter the Great shifts the emphasis from the great estates to the basic production unit the peasant family farms and uses archaeological and ethnographic materials to supplement the documentary evidence The methods of production and the farm implements used are described in detail and Professor Smith argues that features inherent in peasant farming account for Russian backwardness during this period Part I classifies and describes the range of agrarian activities carried on in Muscovy arable farming hayfields livestock and gathering from the forest and presents a model of a hypothetical farm unit Part II examines three regions Moscow Toropets and Kazan which stretch across central European Russia and Part III provides a chapter on the relationship between peasant farming and the state

Russia in the Early Modern World Donald Ostrowski, 2022-01-25 A fundamental problem in studying early modern Russian history is determining Russia's historical development in relationship to the rest of the world The focus throughout this book is on the continuity of Russian policies during the early modern period 1450 1800 and that those policies coincided with those of other successful contemporary Eurasian polities The continuities occurred in the midst of constant change but neither one nor the other continuities or changes alone can account for Russia's success Instead Russian rulers from Ivan III to Catherine II with their hub advisors managed to sustain a balance between the two During the early modern period these Russian rulers invited into the country foreign experts to facilitate the transfer of technology and know how mostly from Europe but also from Asia In this respect they were willing to look abroad for solutions to domestic problems Russia looked westward for military weaponry and techniques at the same time it was expanding eastward into the Eurasian heartland The ruling elite and by extension the entire ruling class worked in cooperation with the ruler to implement policies The Church played an active role in supporting the government and in seeking to eliminate opposition to the government

A History of Beekeeping and the Honeybee in Contested Eastern European Landscapes Catherine B. Clay, 2024-12-21 This book traces the material cultural dynamics of the honeybee and beekeeping from prehistory to the present in the areas that would become Imperial Russia and the Soviet Union Beekeeping and the cultural meanings around the honeybee and its products have been fundamental to this region's history

The Unending Frontier John F. Richards, 2003-05-15 John F.

Famine in Peasant Societies Ronald E. Seavoy, 1986-06-24 In this controversial study Seavoy offers a new approach to the problem of periodic peacetime famine based on the actual behavior of peasants He maintains that it is possible to increase per capita food production without massive and inappropriate technological inputs Seavoy shifts the focus from modern development economics to a cultural and historical analysis of subsistence agriculture in Western Europe England and Ireland Indonesia and India From his survey of peasant civilization practices in these countries he generalizes on the social values that create what he terms the subsistence compromise In all of the ages and culture Seavoy finds a consistent social organization of agriculture that produces identical results seasonal hunger in poor crop years and famine conditions in consecutive poor crop years He argues that economic policies have failed to increase per capita food production because economists and government planners try to apply market oriented policies to populations that are not commercially motivated Once they understand the subsistence compromise policy makers can take appropriate political action Peasant Studies ,1975
