Citizen Politics In Post-industrial Societies Terry Nichols Clark, 2018-03-14 The past several decades have seen profound changes in the political landscapes of advanced industrial societies This volume assesses key political developments and links them to underlying socioeconomic and cultural forces These forces include the growth of a well educated middle class the moderating of bipolar class divisions between wealthy capitalists and struggling workers and the accelerated rise of new media technologies especially television as potent tools shaping the terms of public discussion Related political transformations include the spread of new social movements on feminist environmental and civil liberties issues economic concerns focusing more on growth taxes and middle class programs than on redistribution the fracturing of core left and right political ideologies and the growing centrality of electronic media as carriers of political opinions and rhetoric The past several decades have seen profound changes in the political landscapes of advanced industrial societies This volume assesses key political developments and links them to underlying socioeconomic and cultural forces These forces include the growth of a well educated middle class the moderating of bipolar class divisions between wealthy capitalists and struggling workers and the accelerated rise of new media technologies especially television as potent tools shaping the terms of public discussion Related political transformations include the spread of new social movements on feminist environmental and civil liberties issues economic concerns focusing more on growth taxes and middle class programs than on redistribution the fracturing of core left and right political ideologies and the growing centrality of electronic media as carriers of political opinions and rhetoric In their introduction Terry Clark and Michael Rempel pull together many seemingly disparate political changes to construct a clear synthetic framework identifying eight core components of postindustrial politics Part Two examines shifts in underlying cultural values It features a lively exchange between different contributors over whether apolitical materialistic values have risen or declined since the 1960s Part Three offers an in depth look at the political views and party allegiances of the growing middle classes and Part Four examines some of today's most divisive issues. Although primarily adopting a cross-national perspective, Citizen Politics in Post Industrial Societies includes several case studies of politics in the United States and one in Japan. Unique in its synthetic vision, this volume will stimulate and challenge readers from across the political and theoretical spectrum. A New Political Philosophy for Nigeria V. O. Awosika, 1983

Globalization and Social Change Johannes Dragsbaek Schmidt, Jacques Hersh, 2003-10-04 An innovative and forward-looking volume which challenges conventional thinking regarding the inevitability of globalisation. Essential reading for those interested in the development of and the potential alternatives to globalisation. The New Politics Frank Buffington

Vrooman, 1911 Global Political Economy Nicola Phillips, 2023 With a unique emphasis on the big debates and questions that have the potential to affect all our lives, a diverse range of viewpoints are presented to encourage and equip students to become active participants in the discussions that animate global political economy today. The New Politics of

Confidence Pierre S. Pettigrew, 1999 Leadership and Change Warren Edward Miller, Teresa E. Levitin, 1976

Thailand's New Politics Michael H. Nelson, 2001 Thailand's new politics King Prajadhipok's Institute yearbook 2001 edited by Michael H. Nelson Power Sharing in a Divided Nation Johan Saravanamuttu, 2017-03-09 This book argues that Malaysia's electoral politics have historically been premised on a hybridized model of communalism and consociationalism. Beyond this, it posits a newer idea of power sharing based on the dynamic and transformative practice of mediated communalism through six decades (1952-2016) of electoral politics. The strategy of mediating communalism is critically explored throughout the book, serving to test its saliency as a distinct approach to power sharing in a social formation which is ethnically, religiously, and regionally divided yet has remained remarkably and tenuously integrated throughout Malaysia's electoral history. The book delves into this question by narrating and theorizing the complexity of communal politics leading to the emergence of new politics which have attempted to put Malaysia on the track of further democratization. It is further implied that new politics has to work in tandem with mediated communalism to transcend the most deleterious effects of an ethnically divided society. New Politics, 1961 Revolution and Political Change Alexander J. Groth, 1996 This book is a collection of essays from the scholarly literature on the causes and characteristics of political revolutions of modernity. The editor's introductory chapter emphasizes increasing political mobilization and, above all, the acceleration of interactive changes in the fundamental context of politics: social, economic, and cultural, as a precursor to increasingly volatile world environments. Foreign Policy and the New Government Chatham House, 1979 A Preface to the Social Sciences Raymond F. Bellamy, 1956 Diary, Reminiscences and Correspondence of Henry Crabb Robinson Henry Crabb Robinson, 1871
