Schooled To Work:

Criminal Behaviour from School to the Workplace Frank Weerman, Catrien Bijleveld, 2013-12-17 This volume focuses on the complex relation between offending and the transition from school to the workplace how employment and education are related to breaking the law and getting in contact with the criminal justice system The contributors report results from several large scale and sophisticated studies conducted in the Netherlands that gathered rich data on employment education and criminal behaviour Each of the studies focuses on a particular period during the life course and particular risk categories Taken together they contribute to our understanding of how getting out of school getting into a job and doing illegal things are intertwined over the life course and how these relations differ with age and gender The background of this volume is our interest in the often studied relation between offending and employment or more generally between offending and the transition from school to work including dropping out part time work and joblessness The available literature casts little doubt that employment and education are indeed related to less crime and offending However this relation is much more complex than it appears at first hand The volume is primarily aimed at researchers and students in the fields of criminology sociology and economics However it may also be of use for non academic professionals in particular policy makers and practitioners in the field of criminal justice probation rehabilitation and youth schools Transitioning to Adulthood in Asia:

School, Work, and Family Life Wei-Jun Jean Yeung, Cheryll Alipio, Frank F. Furstenberg, Jr., 2013-03-07 In the past decade or so scholars in the United States have identified the emergence of a new distinct stage of life as adolescence has become protracted and most young people of recent generations take longer to achieve economic and psychological autonomy than they did a half century ago This new life stage in between adolescence and adulthood when young people are in a semiautonomous state has come to be known as early adulthood Main characteristics of this new life stage include a later entry into the work force a longer period of time living in the natal home and a delayed age at marriage and childbearing These trends not only have profound implications for young adults well being and intergenerational relationships but also challenge social institutions such as family schools labor markets and many youth serving institutions Integrating

School and Workplace Learning in Canada Hans G. Schuetze, Robert Sweet, 2004-04 In response to concerns that the educational system from public schools through colleges universities and apprenticeship programs cannot adequately prepare students for work in the new economy Integrating School and Workplace Learning in Canada proposes alternation a hybrid form of learning that by combining experiential and cognitive learning skills allows individuals to develop the relevant skills and intellectual capabilities to address and solve complex problems encountered in the workplace Alternation involves not only a curricular balance between the theoretical and the practical but also two distinct venues for learning the classroom and the workplace The authors discuss cognitive and social learning its implementation in a variety of settings its role in smoothing the school work transition process and its potential to contribute to the knowledge and skills needed by the workforce They bring a wide range of disciplinary perspectives to bear in their analyses of the principles and practices of alternation providing historical theoretical and practical insights Their analysis contributes to and extends the current debate and discussion surrounding necessary changes in our education and training practices School work. with revisions,
