International Environmental Politics Lee-Anne Broadhead,2002 Broadhead political science University College of Cape Breton Nova Scotia writes from a deepening concern that the very way environmental issues are thought about and the negotiations that result from their common framing are themselves leading to the further deterioration of the natural environment The author owes her brand of critique to the Frankfurt School especially in terms of its analysis of the Enlightenment notion of nature scientifically knowable and technologically domitable Showing how Enlightenment thought informs international relations Broadhead targets green diplomacy the way that national and international financial bodies counter environmental critique how globalization is sold as inevitable irresistible and beneficial and how international agreements on ozone depletion and climate change fail their stated aims So as not to end in dialectic negation Broadhead offers positive alternatives to green diplomacy Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR

The Encyclopedia of Public Choice Charles Rowley,Friedrich Schneider,2004-07-06 The Encyclopedia provides a detailed and comprehensive account of the subject known as public choice However the title would not convey sufficiently the breadth of the Encyclopedia's contents which can be summarized better as the fruitful interchange of economics political science and moral philosophy on the basis of an image of man as a purposive and responsible actor who pursues his own objectives as efficiently as possible This fruitful interchange between the fields outlined above existed during the late eighteenth century during the brief period of the Scottish Enlightenment when such great scholars as David Hume Adam Ferguson and Adam Smith contributed to all these fields and more However as intellectual specialization gradually replaced broad based scholarship from the nineteenth century onwards it became increasingly rare to find a scholar making major contributions to more than one Once Alfred Marshall defined economics in neoclassical terms as a narrow positive discipline the link between economics political science and moral philosophy was all but severed and economists redefined their role into that of the humble dentist providing technical economic information as inputs to improve the performance of impartial benevolent and omniscient governments in their attempts to promote the public interest This indeed was the dominant view within an economics profession that had become besotted by the economics of John Maynard Keynes and Paul Samuelson immediately following the end of the Second World War
