Sexual Coercion and Reproductive Health Lori Heise, Kirsten Moore, Nahid Toubia, 1995 Gender based violence has a direct impact on a range of women's reproductive health problems including adolescent pregnancy high risk sexual behavior sexually transmitted diseases neonatal and maternal mortality and chronic pelvic pain To facilitate integration of these two areas the Population Council's Ebert Program on Critical Issues in Reproductive Health and the Health and Development Policy Project met together in November 1993 It has been demonstrated that women who have been sexually abused as children are at increased risk of early initiation of intercourse multiple partners unprotected sex prostitution drug and alcohol abuse depression and low self esteem Although most societies condemn incest and forced intercourse with an unmarried virgin coerced sex within marriage or with a sexually experienced woman may be tolerated The general paucity of research on coerced sex reflects the more general avoidance of issues of gender and power Seminar participants identified six priority areas for research sociocultural contexts that shape and support sexual coercion the integration of questions on sexual violence into ongoing research on AIDS sexuality and reproductive health in order to gain prevalence data the cultural meanings attached to sexual trauma the physical and psychological consequences of sexual coercion processes within the criminal justice legal media and medical care systems that perpetuate sexual victimization and effective interventions Sex Without Consent Shireen J Jejeebhoy, Iqbal Shah, Shyam Thapa, 2013-07-04 The pressing need to break the silence on non consensual sex among young people an issue shrouded by denial underreporting and stigma is self evident Despite the growing body of research regarding young people's sexual behaviours the study of coercive sexual experiences has generally been overlooked by both researchers and national programmes Available evidence has been scattered and unrepresentative and despite this evidence non consensual sex among young people is perceived to be a rare occurrence This volume dispels any such misconception It presents a disturbing picture of non consensual sex among girls as well as boys and among married as well as unmarried young women in a variety of settings This volume documents moreover the expanse of non consensual experiences that young people face from unwanted touch to forced penetrative sex and gang rape Although the focus is on young females the volume also sheds light on the experience of young males as both victims and perpetrators This pioneering volume highlights key factors placing young people at risk whilst outlining the significant distinctive health and social implications they face Sex Without Consent also documents the unsupportive and sometimes abusive or negligent roles of families teachers health care providers and law enforcement agents outlines promising efforts intended to prevent non consensual sex or support survivors and argues for profound changes in norms and values that tolerate or encourage non consensual sex The editors based at the Population Council New Delhi the World Health Organization Geneva and Family Health International Virginia argue compellingly for a radical review and reform of existing programmes designed to prevent this kind of abuse and to support young survivors of sexual trauma in the developing world Addressing the magnitude determinants and consequences of sex without consent this volume provides evidence based directions for programming
