Shades Of Green Business Regulation And Environment:

Shades of Green Neil Gunningham, Robert A. Kagan, Dorothy Thornton, 2003 This in depth study of fourteen pulp manufacturing mills in the United States Canada Australia and New Zealand provides the most extensive and systematic empirical examination to date of the reasons firms achieve the levels of environmental performance that they do The New Environmental Regulation Daniel J. Fiorino, 2006 Winner 2007 Louis Brownlow Award presented by the National Academy of Public Administration NAPA and 2006 Best Book in Environmental Management and Policy American Society for Public Administration Environmental regulation in the United States has succeeded to a certain extent in solving the problems it was designed to address air water and land are indisputably cleaner and in better condition than they would be without the environmental controls put in place since 1970 But Daniel Fiorino argues in The New Environmental Regulation that given recent environmental economic and social changes it is time for a new more effective model of environmental problem solving Fiorino provides a comprehensive but concise overview of U S environmental regulation its history its rationale and its application and offers recommendations for a more collaborative flexible and performance based alternative Traditional environmental regulation was based on the increasingly outdated assumption that environmental protection and business are irreversibly at odds The new environmental regulation Fiorino describes is based on performance rather than on a narrow definition of compliance and uses such policy instruments as market incentives and performance measurement It takes into consideration differences in the willingness and capabilities of different firms to meet their environmental obligations and it encourages innovation by allowing regulated industries especially the better performers more flexibility in how they achieve environmental goals Fiorino points to specific programs including the 33 50 Program innovative permitting and the use of covenants as environmental policy instruments in the Netherlands that have successfully pioneered these new strategies By bringing together such a wide range of research and real world examples Fiorino has created an invaluable resource for practitioners and scholars and an engaging text for environmental policy courses Green Ethics and Philosophy Julie Newman, 2011-06-28 Covers the moral relationship between humans and their natural environment specifically targeting the contemporary green movement Regulating Land and Pollution in China Benjamin van Rooij, 2006 Annotation Many of China s rivers and lakes are strongly polluted the air in cities is amongst the worst in the world while some have warned that if the country is not careful it may soon have insufficient arable land to feed its population This book looks at why the protection of natural resources through stricter legislation and more stringent law enforcement has been so difficult It does so through a combination of a local case with comparative and theoretical insights about lawmaking compliance and enforcement It offers a unique view on how law functions in the world s largest legal system and how such law interacts with the social economic and political circumstances at hand This book offers an incomparable body of empirical and theoretical knowledge for those interested in how law functions in China as well as those interested in the workings of regulatory lawmaking compliance and enforcement in a comparative perspective This title can be previewed in Google Books <http://books.google.com/books> vid ISBN9789087280130 Shades of Green Neil Gunningham, Robert A.
