Shadows Of Ghadames:

The Shadows of Ghadames Joelle Stolz, 2009-04-02 Why is a girl forbidden to read or receive an education This story about a Muslim girl bound by traditional Islamic customs but who yearns for something more explores women's rights freedom religion and identity In the Libyan city of Ghadames Malika watches her merchant father depart on one of his caravan expeditions She too yearns to travel to distant cities and longs to learn to read like her younger brother But nearly 12 years old and soon to be of marriagable age Malika knows that like all Muslim women she must be content with a more secluded more limited life Then one night a stranger enters her home someone who disrupts the traditional order of things and who affects Malika in unexpected ways I was enchanted by this story of a brave Berber girl who dares to dream and its filigree of details about harem life ancient trade routes goddesses and healers The real beauty of The Shadows of Ghadames is that it transcends the exotic to explore universal truths about the condition of being human Suzanne Fisher Staples author of the Newbery Honor Book Shabanu Daughter of the Wind Stolz invigorates her tale with elegant prose and a deft portrayal of a girl verging on adolescence The vivid backdrop is intoxicating but the story's universal concerns will touch readers most Booklist Starred

The Shadows of Ghadames Joëlle Stolz, 2004 At the end of the nineteenth century in Libya eleven year old Malika simultaneously enjoys and feels constricted by the narrow world of women but an injured stranger enters her home and disrupts the traditional order of things

Neo-Imperialism in Children's Literature About Africa Yulisa Amadu Maddy, Donnaræ MacCann, 2008-12-28 In the spirit of their last collaboration Apartheid and Racism in South African Children's Literature 1985 1995 Yulisa Amadu Maddy and Donnaræ MacCann once again come together to expose the neo imperialist overtones of contemporary children's fiction about Africa Examining the portrayal of African social customs religious philosophies and political structures in fiction for young people Maddy and MacCann reveal the Western biases that often infuse stories by well known Western authors In the book's introductory section Maddy and MacCann offer historical information concerning Western notions of Africa as primitive and then present background information about the complexity of feminism in Africa and about the ongoing institutionalization of racism The main body of the study contains critiques of the novels or short stories of eleven well known writers including Isabel Allende and Nancy Farmer all demonstrating that children's literature continues to mis represent conditions and social relations in Africa The study concludes with a look at those short stories of Beverley Naidoo which bring insight and historical accuracy to South African conflicts and emerging solutions Educators literature professors publishers professors of Diaspora and African studies and students of the mass media will find Maddy and MacCann's critique of racism in the representation of Africa to be indispensable to students of multicultural literature

African Youth in Contemporary Literature and Popular Culture Vivian Yenika-Agbaw, Lindah Mhando, 2014-01-21 This book explores how African youth are depicted in contemporary literature and popular culture and discusses the different ways by which they attempt to construct personal and cultural identities through popular culture and social media outlets The contributors approach the subject from an interdisciplinary perspective looking at images in children's and adolescent literature from Africa and the African diaspora from Nollywood and Hollywood movies from popular magazines and from youth cultures encountered directly through field experiences The findings reveal that there are many stereotypes about Africa African youth and black cultures and that African youth are aware of these Since they juggle multiple identities shaped by their ethnicities race and religion it is often a challenge for them to define themselves As they also share a global youth culture that transcends these cultural markers some take advantage of media outlets to voice their concerns and participate in political struggles Others simply use these to promote their personal interests Contributors ponder the challenges involved in constructing unique identities offering ideas on how African youth are doing so successfully or not in different parts of the continent and the African diaspora and thus offer new possibilities for youth studies
