Shadows On The Rock:

Shadows on the Rock Willa Cather, 2022-09-15 In Shadows on the Rock Willa Cather artfully explores life in 17th century Quebec through the lens of a tender yet complex story that balances themes of isolation and community. The narrative unfolds with elegant prose rich in sensory details evoking the emotional landscape of its characters as they navigate the harsh wilderness and the sociocultural intricacies of their time. Cather's distinctive style blends historical realism with a profound appreciation for the natural world, reflecting the era's turbulence while capturing the resilience of the human spirit in the face of adversity. Willa Cather, a prominent figure in early 20th century American literature, was known for her depictions of frontier life and strong female characters. Drawing upon her own experiences growing up in Nebraska and her passion for history, Cather crafted this richly textured novel that assembles her literary influences, including her fascination with the pastoral and a longing for a bygone era. Her deep kinship with the landscapes she portrayed infused her narrative with authenticity and emotional depth, resonating with her own sense of belonging. Readers seeking a profound exploration of identity and place will find Shadows on the Rock an invaluable addition to Cather's oeuvre. With its exquisite character development and intricate depiction of colonial life, this novel invites reflection on the complexities of human relationships and the interplay between personal and historical narratives. Cather's masterful storytelling makes this book not just a glimpse into the past but a timeless tale of resilience and connection. Odom* William Odom, 1899 Shadows On The Rock by Willa Cather Willa Cather, 1931 Shadows on the Rock is a novel by the American writer Willa Cather published in 1931. The novel covers one year of the lives of Cecile Auclair and her father Euclide French colonists in Quebec. Like many of Cather's books, the story is driven by detailed portraits of the characters rather than a narrative plot. Book I: The Apothecary The story opens in 1697 in Quebec. Euclide Auclair stands on Cap Diamant overlooking the river, watching as the last ship of the season returns to France. He comes down to dinner with his daughter Cecile. After dinner, Cecile feeds Blinker, a partially disabled hired man who does some of the heavy chores.

Euclide Auclair came to the Quebec colony eight years prior in the service of Count de Frontenac as physician and apothecary. His wife has died after an illness and the duties of housekeeping have devolved upon his daughter Cécile. The following day Cécile and Euclide attend to Reverend Mother Juschereau who has sprained her ankle. Her father replenishes the hospital supplies while Mother Juschereau tells Cécile a story. Book II Cécile and Jacques. On market day in late October Euclide goes to buy vegetables to store in his root cellar. A description is given of citizens growing lettuce and root vegetables in cold frames in their cellars during the long winter. He goes to the church to say a prayer and notices Jacques the son of a dissolute woman also saying his prayers. Cécile goes to Governor Frontenac to ask for a pair of shoes for Jacques. He praises her for her charity and industry and asks if she would like anything for herself. She asks to look at his bowl of glass fruit and he reminisces about his experiences in Turkey where the glass was made. Book III The Long Winter. The young Bishop Saint Vallier calls at Auclair's shop for sugared fruit. We learn that Bishop Saint Vallier has undone the system of education and parish management instituted over twenty years by Bishop Laval. Euclide does not like the young bishop because of his extravagant way of life, his snubbing of the older bishop, and because he believes Saint Vallier makes poor decisions. Euclide derides him as less like a churchman than a courtier. Book IV Pierre Charron. In June a fur trader named Pierre Charron calls on Euclide. He tells many stories to Euclide and Cécile and accompanies Cécile on a visit to friends on the le d'Orléans. Book V The ships from France. With many of their fellow townsfolk Cécile and Jacques go down to the harbor to watch as five ships arrive from France. There is a general celebration. Cécile receives packages from her two French aunts containing clothing and jewelry. Cécile is scheduled to return to France when the ships leave at the end of summer but is having reservations. She tells her father that she is concerned about who will look after her friend Jacques. Her father takes no notice and she is quite upset. She goes to the church to pray and runs into Bishop Laval to whom she relates her troubles. Book VI The Dying Count. The Count learns that despite his expectations he is not being recalled to France. He tells Euclide that he is released from his service and may return to France but Euclide chooses to remain. The Count tells Euclide that he is dying and directs him to take the bowl of glass fruit to Cécile as a gift. Some time later the Count passes away. The two bishops resolve their differences.
