Rushing Into Floods Gunda Windmüller, 2012-05-23 The dramatic representation of maritime spaces characters and plots in Restoration and early eighteenth century English theatres served as a crucial discursive negotiation of a burgeoning empire This study focuses on staging the sea in a period of growing maritime commercial and colonial activity a time when the prominence of the sea and shipping was firmly established in the very fabric of English life As theatres were re-established after the Restoration playhouses soon became very visible spaces of cultural activity and important locales for staging cultural contact and conflict Plays staging the sea can be read as central in representing the budding maritime empire to metropolitan audiences as well as negotiating political power and knowledge about the other The study explores well known plays by authors such as Aphra Behn and William Wycherley alongside a host of more obscure plays by authors such as Edward Ravenscroft and Charles Gildon as cultural performances for negotiating cultural identity and difference in the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries      Shakespeare's Staged Spaces and Playgoers' Perceptions D. Farabee, 2014-12-04

This engaging study offers fresh readings of canonical Shakespeare plays illuminating ways stagecraft and language of movement create meaning for playgoers The discussions engage materials from the period present revelatory readings of Shakespeare s language and demonstrate how these continually popular texts engage all of us in making meaning
