Galen's Prophecy Jerome Kagan, 2018-10-08 Nearly two thousand years ago a physician named Galen of Pergamon suggested that much of the variation in human behavior could be explained by an individual's temperament. Since that time inborn dispositions have fallen in and out of favor. Based on fifteen years of research, Galen's Prophecy now provides fresh insights into these complex questions, offering startling new evidence to support Galen's ancient classification of melancholic and sanguine adults. Integrating evidence and ideas from biology, philosophy, and psychology, Jerome Kagan examines the implications of the idea of temperament for aggressive behavior, conscience, psychopathology, and the degree to which each of us can be expected to control our deepest emotions. Butterick Paris Fashions, 1922 Fear of Aging João Paulo Guimarães, 2025-02-27 In the genre of horror, elderly people are often used as a trope to evoke both a fear of death and a fear of aging. Old age is therefore equated with bodily, mental, or social decline. The contributors of this book investigate what exactly we are afraid of when we posit old age as a source of horror. The aim is to harness the thrills and pleasures of horror to think about how quality of life can be improved in old age and how elderly people can be better integrated in our ever fearful and suspicious societies. The Amateur Photographer, 1899 The popular illustrated journal for all photographers devoted to the interests of photography and kindred arts and sciences. Stolen Memories Kelsey Roberts, 1994 Stolen Memories by Kelsey Roberts released on Mar 25, 1994 is available now for purchase. Birds and All Nature in Natural Colors ..., 1908 Holden's Dollar Magazine, 1848 Holden's Dollar Magazine of Criticisms, Biographies, Sketches, Essays, Tales, Reviews, Poetry, Etc., Etc. Charles Frederick Briggs, 1848 Life and Work Church of Scotland, 1885 At Home in the World Donald Capps, 2013-01-28 The emotional separation of boys from their mothers in early childhood enables them to connect with their fathers and their father's world. But this separation also produces a melancholic reaction of sadness and sense of loss. Certain religious sensibilities develop out of this melancholic reaction, including a sense of honor, a sense of hope, and a sense of humor. Realizing that they cannot return to their original maternal environment, men, whether knowingly or not, embark on a lifelong search for a sense of being at home in the world. At Home in the World focuses on works of art as a means to explore the formation and continuing expression of men's melancholy selves and their religious sensibilities. These explorations include such topics as male viewers' mixed feelings toward the maternal figure, physical settings that offer alternatives to the maternal environment, and the maternal resonances of the world of nature. By presenting images of the natural world as the locus of peace and contentment, At Home in the World especially reflects of the religious sensibility of hope. Birds and All Nature in Natural Colors Charles C.
