better understand Shakespeare's plays it is essential to look at the historicism of setting how the places and societies depicted in the plays were understood in the period when they were written This book offers us new readings of neglected critical moments in key plays such as Malcolm's final speech in Macbeth and the Duke's inaction in The Merchant of Venice by investigating early modern views about each setting and demonstrating how the plays navigate between those contemporary perspectives Divided into three parts this book explores Shakespeare's historicist use of medieval Britain and Scotland in King John and Macbeth ancient Rome in Julius Caesar and Coriolanus and Renaissance Europe through Venice and Vienna in The Merchant of Venice Othello and Measure for Measure Philip Goldfarb Styrt argues that settings are a powerful component in Shakespeare's worlds that not only function as physical locations but are a mechanism through which he communicates the political and social orders of the plays Reading the plays in light of these social and political contexts reveals Shakespeare's dramatic method how he used competing cultural narratives about other cultures to situate the action of his plays These fresh insights encourage us to move away from overly localized or universalized readings of the plays and re-discover hidden moments and meanings that have long been obscured Shakespeare Survey: Volume 54, Shakespeare and Religions Peter Holland, 2001-10-04 Shakespeare Survey is a yearbook of Shakespeare studies and production Since 1948 Survey has published the best international scholarship in English and many of its essays have become classics of Shakespeare criticism Each volume is devoted to a theme or play or group of plays each also contains a section of reviews of the previous year's textual and critical studies and of major British performances The books are illustrated with a variety of Shakespearean images and production photographs The current editor of Survey is Peter Holland The first eighteen volumes were edited by Allardyce Nicoll numbers 19-33 by Kenneth Muir and numbers 34-52 by Stanley Wells The virtues of accessible scholarship and a keen interest in performance from Shakespeare's time to our own have characterised the journal from the start For the first time numbers 1-50 are being reissued in paperback available separately and as a set
