Margaretta D'Arcy, John Arden, 1986      Fashion Doug Lucie, 1987 Explores the murky waters of political advertising Thatcherite Britain is in the ascendant and Paul Cash self made man and successful advertising agent is on the brink of landing the Tory Party account To win it he hires Stuart Clarke a once brilliant film director now fallen on hard times Once

Hitler Dances Howard Brenton, 1982 Hitler Dances is striking not so much for the formal experimentation of its dramatic design as for its use of innovative theatrical procedures Conceived as a workshop by the Traverse Theatre of Edinburgh Hitler Dances originated as a series of exercises in which the actors confronted their experience and recollection of wartime England Line 'em Nigel Williams, 1980 A picket line is drawn up across the gates of a factory The commitment of certain of the pickets is rather less than red hot But when the army arrives the stage is set for a classic confrontation but one where the principle interest lies less in the trail of strength than in the shifting relationships and loyalties within the two groups of men Three Sisters Anton Pavlovich Chekhov, 1983 As an internationally acclaimed playwright who is also proficient in Russian Michael Frayn is ideally placed to offer us a wholly accurate yet modern and playable translation of Chekhov's classic play For this edition he has also provided a full introduction and a chronology of Chekhov's life and works Michael Frayn's ambition in translating the piece was to recreate for an English audience the naturalness and glancing eloquence of the original and I think he succeeds completely Spectator Frayn's translation is full of those little liberties and intimacies of ordinary speech which override grammar and syntax and betray moods of ordinary people and the impulses of the heart Daily Telegraph Pass the Butler Eric Idle, 1982
