need to address complex problems In order to train these networks to deal with challenging problems the appropriate models must first be solved Neural networks which imitate the brain in structure and operation process and transform data These tasks are handled by multi layer neural networks consisting of numerous nodes communicating with one another Fundamental to the idea which are defined by the existence of several layers of connected nodes It is from this idea that the term deep neural network was coined Because these networks can spot hierarchical patterns and features in the data it is possible that they can develop elaborate representations of the data If deep learning algorithms could independently learn and develop themselves depending on the data they were presented then human engineers might not be needed to manually construct features Deep learning has been very effective in several fields These fields include picture identification natural language processing voice recognition and recommendation systems When training deep neural networks it is generally necessary to have access to vast volumes of data and have a fast processing speed Training deep neural networks on the other hand has become a great deal less complicated in recent years because to the proliferation of cloud computing and specialized equipment such as Graphics Processing Units GPUs
