International Sports Economics Comparisons Rodney D. Fort, John L. Fize, 2004-03-30 This book brings together for the first time under a single cover international comparisons of the major topics in sports economics Contributors are all renowned scholars of the international sports scene in Australia New Zealand Brazil the Pacific Rim North America and Europe The reader will find an overview of sports in particular countries and regions along with comparisons along the major topics of economic importance In particular the contributions compare and contrast revenues and costs labor markets restrictions and discrimination market structures league and association organizations and outcomes team profitability and competitive balance and policy issues especially competition policy Aimed primarily at sports scholars practicing sports professionals and policymakers the volume is also well suited for undergraduate sports economics sports management and sports law courses J2EE and JAX Michael Yawn, Mike Yawn, 2002 CD ROM contains Source code Tools for developing and deploying Web services Driver Behavior Analysis and Decision-Making for Autonomous Driving at Non-Signalized Inner City Intersections Weinreuter, Hannes, 2025-01-17 The focus of this work is on human driving behavior in road traffic Two aspects of it are covered the prediction of it including the identification of relevant influencing factors as well as the behavior generation for autonomous vehicles The behavior prediction is based on a field study during which participants drove a measurement vehicle through inner city traffic Using the driven trajectories and lidar recordings complexity features to describe the surroundings at the intersection the traffic there and the driving path are defined The driving behavior is characterized by further features Based on the complexity features regression models are trained to predict the behavior features For that linear regression random forest and gradient boosting machine are utilized Different complexity feature sets including ones that are reduced with the help of an autoencoder are used for prediction The results show that the driving behavior can be predicted reliably However when using complexity feature sets with only few features the prediction performance is reduced In order to obtain a complexity score that is in line with human perception of complexity an online study using videos of approaches to intersections was conducted In pairwise comparisons participants were asked to identify the more complex situation From that data complexity scores for the intersection passes included in the study are calculated Several methods are used to assign these scores to the runs of the original field study Behavior regression models are trained using these assigned complexity scores The results show that behavior prediction with the complexity scores is possible however most variants require to also consider the turning direction as a second feature The behavior generation for decision making at T intersections is based on a discrete event system DES For it several features are used to define events that describe the status of the decision making process at the intersection The events trigger the transitions between the states of the DES All states are associated with either offensive or defensive driving behavior which is implemented using the intelligent driver model The algorithm is validated with a simulation framework Using a generic map and several real maps the decision making model is simulated 14400 times while interacting with further cooperation vehicles None of these runs resulted in a collision involving the vehicle running the algorithm and the times to pass the intersection can be explained by the numbers of cooperation vehicles and the intersection layouts Further simulations are used to investigate the influence of limited visibility at the intersections on the model Football and Its Future Francesco Manfredi, 2006 Football is universal in the values that it protects and proposes and in its capacity to produce social and economic value the economic value coming from the professional domain and the social value from the amateur domain The former is the domain of stars big events new stories victories and outstanding feats of athleticism the second is the less visible side of the whole movement the domain of spontaneity fun and participants of all ages and abilities being together regardless of race religion language or the chances of victory or great athletic feats This book the result of much study and contemplation on football management embraces all of these themes starting with the acknowledgement of the diversity of these two domains and at the same time of their inseparability
