Population Growth And Agrarian Change:

Population Growth and Agrarian Change David B. Grigg, 1980-12-18 This book first published in 1980 suggests some ways of looking at the interrelationships between population growth and agrarian change and uses these approaches to consider the demographic and agrarian problems of various parts of Europe in the past in the fourteenth century the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries and in the early nineteenth century

The Conditions of Agricultural Growth Ester Boserup, 2003 Investigating the process of agrarian change this book analyzes costs and productivity under the main systems of primitive agriculture The conclusion is that technical economic and social changes are unlikely to take place within primitive agriculture unless the rural community concerned is exposed to the pressure of population growth a conclusion that is in sharp contrast to generally accepted ideas The themes in the book are central to the discussion of the problems of population explosion and the world's undernourished peoples

Population Growth and Agrarian Change D. B. Grigg, 1980-12-18 Since the 1950s much attention has been paid to the effect of rapid population growth on the rural societies of the Third World Yet it is often forgotten that Europe faced similar problems in the past This book first published in 1980 suggests some ways of looking at the interrelationships between population growth and agrarian change and uses these approaches to consider the demographic and agrarian problems of various parts of Europe in the past in the fourteenth century the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries and in the early nineteenth century These places are then compared with rural societies in the developing world at the present time

The Conditions of Agricultural Growth Ester Boserup, 2011-12-31 This book sets out to investigate the process of agrarian change from new angles and with new results It starts on firm ground rather than from abstract economic theory Upon its initial appearance it was heralded as a small masterpiece which economic historians should read and not simply quote Giovanni Frederico Economic History Services The Conditions of Agricultural Growth remains a breakthrough in the theory of agricultural development In linking ethnography with economy developmental studies reached new heights Whereas development had been seen previously as the transformation of traditional communities by the introduction or imposition of new technologies Ester Boserup argues that changes and improvements occur from within agricultural communities and that improvements are governed not simply by external interference but by those communities themselves Using extensive analyses of the costs and productivity of the main systems of traditional agriculture Ester Boserup concludes that technical economic and social changes are unlikely to take place unless the community concerned is exposed to the pressure of population growth
