Mwamba, Oswald Mashindano, 2006 Opportunities and Challenges in an Ageing Society Wim J. A. van den Heuvel, Raymond Illsley, Anne Jamieson, C. P. M. Knipscheer, 1992 Paperback This is a reflection on the ageing societies in the Western World It is organised in three parts the first on social relationships family and ageing the second on the labour market retirement and the pension system and the last part on health care and ageing The emphasis is on the opportunities and challenges and not on the problems of an ageing society In contrast to many studies in this area the editors do not like to dramatise the future of ageing societies and prefer to look at the process in proportion The editors are of the opinion that there is a cumulation of negative scenarios without any perspective on the possible opportunities because of the changing age structure of society The Budgetary Challenges Posed by Ageing Populations , 2003 Demographic changes in the coming decades will alter the size and age profile of populations in all EU countries and pose significant economic budgetary and social challenges Although many such challenges will arise in fields such as pensions and health where primary responsibility rests with national authorities in accordance with the subsidiarity principle there are considerable gains from analysing these issues together at European level This report brings together the work undertaken in the past two years by a group on ageing populations attached to the Economic Policy Committee EPC It responds to various mandates of the Ecofin Council and contains revised projections up to 2050 for spending on public pensions this follows an interim report examined by the Council on 6 November 2000 which was prepared under the chairmanship of Professor Vittorio Grilli projections for the impact of ageing populations on public spending on health care and long term care for the elderly some indicators which on the basis of the projections for age related expenditures could help in assessing the overall impact of ageing populations on the long term sustainability of public finances The Leading Edge ,2005 Business Week ,1998
