Going on holiday this summer? Need some advice?

A.- If you're travelling in the USA and all your clothes are dirty, stay at a hotel with a Jacuzzi. Then lock the door and put all your clothes in it, plus some soap powder of course. They'll soon be brilliantly clean!

B.- If you're trying to decide whether to take a room in a cheap hotel, just lift up the mattress very quickly. If anything moves, don't take the room!

C.- Last summer I was travelling on my own in Italy. I sat down in a café and took out a map and a guide book. Within minutes all the local boys were asking me where I was from and what my name was. The next café I went I bought a local newspaper and pretended to read it. This time the boys all stayed away.

D.- Last year I was travelling in the United States and I didn't have much money left. I went to the local jail and asked the guard to let me stay there for the night. He couldn't refuse because in the USA you can insist on 'protected custody' if you ask for it. He gave me a free room and a free breakfast!

E.- If you're travelling in the Middle East and someone offers you a sheep's eye to eat, you mustn't refuse it, it would be very rude. Instead put it in your mouth and swallow it as quick as possible, don't try to chew it, it tastes like an old rubber ball.

Reading Comprehension Tour Dates Tips:

Reading Comprehension Gr. 5-8 Brenda Rollins, 2009-09-01 A child's ability to read and comprehend the written word is his touchstone to success in school and in life. Designed to teach the reading skills that are basic to reading fluency, our resource emphasizes the primary building blocks of reading acquisition. Start off by identifying the main idea of a passage. Find out how details will point to the most important part of a story. Then use graphic organizers to help identify context clues. Find out what questions to ask before drawing conclusions. Gather all the facts and prior knowledge to help. Learn all about making inferences and how clues from the text and your own knowledge and experiences will tell you what the author is trying to say. Discover the differences between facts and opinions. Learning to read between the lines will help with comprehension. Finally, discover transition words as you learn about sequencing. Aligned to your State Standards and written to Bloom's Taxonomy, reproducible writing tasks, crossword, word search, comprehension quiz, and answer key are also included.

Teaching Reading Comprehension to English Learners in Secondary Schools: A Research-Based Approach Cekiso, Madoda, Olifant, Florence, Mokhtari, Kouider, 2025-04-23 Teaching reading comprehension to English learners (ELs) in secondary schools presents unique challenges as these students must navigate the complexities of academic texts and the intricacies of language acquisition. Effective instruction requires a research-based approach that considers the diverse linguistic, cultural, and cognitive backgrounds of these learners. Recent studies highlight the importance of integrating strategies that build both language proficiency and content knowledge, essential for helping ELs develop the skills needed to comprehend complex materials. Fostering metacognitive awareness through strategies like summarizing, questioning, and making connections can empower students to become active and strategic readers. This approach recognizes the need for a supportive, inclusive classroom environment that encourages language development while promoting academic achievement in content areas. Further research may help educators provide English learners with the tools to thrive as capable readers in secondary school. Teaching Reading Comprehension to English Learners in Secondary School: A Research-Based Approach explores various aspects of teaching reading comprehension to English Second Language (ESL) learners in secondary schools. It examines current challenges and evidence-based strategies in reading comprehension.
