Universities and Innovation Economies Peter Murphy, 2016-02-24 Students drop out of universities in large numbers many graduate to jobs that do not require a degree and a large number learn little at university whilst graduate salaries have shrunk over time and student loan debt and default have grown University research achievements have declined while university administration has expanded massively The contemporary university is mired in auditing regulation waste and aimlessness and its contribution to serious social innovation has deteriorated markedly The miserable state of the universities reflects a larger social reality as bureaucratic capitalism has replaced creative capitalism Universities and Innovation Economies examines the rise and fall of the mass university and post industrial society considering how we might revitalize economic and intellectual creativity Looking to a much more inventive social and economic paradigm to drive long term growth the author argues for a smaller leaner more effective university model one capable of delivering a greater degree of high level discovery and creative power A potent critique of the post industrial mass university that urges a reimagination of universities as places of discovery and invention this book will appeal to readers interested in higher education creativity social theory the sociology of work and organisations political economy pedagogy and public policy

Subcommittee on the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies, 2014 Higher Education at Risk Sandra Featherman, 2023-07-03 Sandra Featherman believes that colleges are in denial about the severity of the threats to the current model of higher education Based on her own experience as a president as a trustee and as a board member who has worked in private and public universities and on interviews with the presidents of major institutions she offers both a trenchant analysis of those threats and clear prescriptions about the painful but necessary decisions that colleges need to make to ensure they remain viable accessible and affordable and deliver a high quality education Sandra Featherman considers higher education to be at a game changing moment When markets don't function well as is the case with today's college marketplace with offerings that cost too much and return too little it opens the door to new types of suppliers who offer new ways of providing what students are looking for particularly the increasing cohort of mature working students In the face of new competitors for profit education companies technology start ups and foreign universities vying for international students trustees and senior level administrators are generally stuck in a traditional ethos and with decision making processes unsuited to these times They know what used to work and find it easier to follow old ways than to make the difficult transition to new ways of delivering education She lays out a strategy that emphasizes the centrality of students and how to provide them with the most effective learning environment that is clear eyed about focusing on the core missions and abandoning practices that constrain or impede them and that requires constant self monitoring to learn from and act upon what works She offers a blueprint for redesigning institutions for paring away what is unnecessary and cost ineffective and for adopting the best technologies all in the service of developing meaningful degree programs at an affordable price and widening access for under represented groups She ranges over the implications of budget decisions accreditation and MOOCs addresses government regulation and tuition costs presents promising new models and concludes with 11 key recommendations that should be heeded by all higher education administrators and trustees
