

A stylized, high-contrast map of Eastern Europe and surrounding regions. The landmasses are depicted in a tan or light brown color, while the surrounding seas and oceans are a deep blue. The map includes labels for 'NORTH OCEAN' at the top, 'EAST OCEAN' on the left, and 'SOUTH OCEAN' at the bottom. The title 'Revolutions in Eastern Europe' is prominently displayed in the center, with 'The Religious Roots' written below it in a smaller, italicized font. The author's name 'NIELS NIELSEN' is at the bottom. The map's borders are thick and black, giving it a graphic, almost abstract appearance.

Zionism and Revolution in European-Jewish Literature Laurel Plapp,2008 Zionism and Revolution in European Jewish Literature examines twentieth century Jewish writing that challenges imperialist ventures and calls for solidarity with the colonized most notably the Arabs of Palestine and Africans in the Americas Since Edward Said defined orientalism in 1978 as a Western image of the Islamic world that has justified domination critics have considered the Jewish people to be complicit with orientalism because of the Zionist movement However the Jews of Europe have themselves been caught between East and West both marginalized as the Orientals of Europe and connected to the Middle East through their own political and cultural ties As a result European Jewish writers have had to negotiate the problematic confluence of antisemitic and orientalist discourse Laurel Plapp traces this trend in utopic visions of Jewish Muslim relations that criticized the early Zionist movement in post Holocaust depictions of coalition between Jews and African slaves in the Caribbean revolutions and finally in explorations of diasporic transnational Jewish identity after the founding of Israel Above all Plapp proposes that Jewish studies and postcolonial studies have much in common by identifying ways in which Jewish writers have allied themselves with colonized and exilic peoples throughout the world The Religious Roots of Contemporary European Identity Lucia Faltin,Melanie J. Aston,2009-07-15 Eighteenth century Europe witnessed monumental upheavals in both the Catholic and Protestant faiths and the repercussions rippled down to the churches religious art forms Nigel Aston now chronicles here the intertwining of cultural and institutional turmoil during this pivotal century The sustained popularity of religious art in the face of competition from increasingly prevalent secular artworks lies at the heart of this study Religious art staked out new spaces of display in state institutions palaces and private collections the book shows as well as taking advantage of patronage from monarchs such as Louis XIV and George III who funded religious art in an effort to enhance their monarchical prestige Aston also explores the motivations and exhibition practices of private collectors and analyzes changing Catholic and Protestant attitudes toward art. The book also examines purchases made by corporate patrons such as charity hospitals and religious confraternities and considers what this reveals about the changing religiosity of the era as well. An in-depth historical study of Art and Religion in Eighteenth Century Europe will be essential for art history and religious studies scholars alike.

Chapters in European History: What can history teach us? The Christian revolution. The turning-point of the Middle Ages. Medieval spiritualism. The Renaissance and liberty William Samuel Lilly, 1886 What Happens When We Practice Religion? Robert Wuthnow, 2020-05-19 An exploration of the interdisciplinary methods used to understand religious practice. Religion is commonly viewed as something that people practice whether in the presence of others or alone. But what do we mean exactly by practice? What approaches help to answer this question? What Happens When We Practice Religion delves into the central concepts, arguments, and tools used to understand religion today. Throughout the past few decades, the study of religion has shifted away from essentialist arguments that grandly purport to explain what religion is and why it exists. Instead, using methods from anthropology, psychology, religious studies, and sociology, scholars now focus on what people do and say: their daily religious habits, routines, improvisations, and adaptations. Robert Wuthnow shows how four intersecting areas of inquiry—situations, intentions, feelings, and bodies—shed important light on religious practice, and he explores such topics as the role of religious experiences in sacred spaces, gendered social relationships, educational settings, the arts, meditation, and ritual. Suitable for undergraduate and graduate courses. What Happens When We Practice Religion provides insights into the diverse ways that religion manifests in ordinary life. Summarizes the latest theories and empirical methods of religious practice. Shows how the study of religion has changed. Includes chapters on theory, situations, intentions, feelings, and bodies. Draws from anthropology, psychology, religious studies, and sociology. Accessible for undergraduate and graduate courses. Syllabus of Lectures on the History of Civilization in Europe Philip Van Ness Myers, 1893 A History of Greece: The Greek revolution, pt. 2: Establishment of the Greek kingdom George Finlay, 1877 Lectures on the History of the Eastern Church Arthur Penrhyn Stanley, 1875 A History of Greece: The Greek revolution, pt. 1, A.D. 1821-1827 George Finlay, 1877 Human Rights Internet Reporter, 1994 A General History of the Christian Era: The social revolution. 9th ed. 1918 Anthony Guggenberger, 1913 The Crisis of an Idea Douglas J.
