Planning And Management In The African Power Sector:

Planning and Management in the African Power Sector ,1998 Planning and Management in the African Power Sector Lucy Redeby,1998 The generation of electricity while by no means the only energy sector to be taken into account in African countries is crucial to the modern economy generally and to the future growth of manufacturing in particular This study explores the problems of the power sector in Africa including the tendency to ignore the electricity needs of the population at large It stresses that power sector reforms are dependent on political stability strong macro economic demand and foreign aid not distorting policy Planning and Management in the African Power Sector Lucy Redeby,African Energy Policy Research Network,1998 This study explores the problems of the power sector in Africa including the tendency to ignore the electricity needs of the population at large Capacity Building for a Reforming African Power Sector J. Baguant,2002 Capacity building for the power sector is an important national responsibility which Governments in Africa need to seriously address The inability of Governments to mobilize the required level of investment and commitment to the development and retention of a wide array of skills needed by the power sector is in part responsible for many of the difficulties that are faced by the region s electricity industry Under the aegis of the AFREPREN Capacity Building Theme Group a regional study and four country studies Zimbabwe Mauritius Ethiopia and South Africa addressed the capacity building question in the African power sector This volume presents the findings of the studies The studies analyse issues of manpower recruitment training and retention in national power utilities They also highlight the challenges and implications of capacity building initiatives in a reforming electricity industry and propose innovative options for capacity building in the region s power sector Climate Change and Africa Pak Sum Low,2006-11-02 At the beginning of the twenty first century no environmental issue is of such truly global magnitude as the issue of climate change The poorer developing countries are the least equipped to adapt to the potential effects of climate change although most of them have played an insignificant role in causing it African countries are amongst the poorest of the developing countries This book presents the issues of most relevance to Africa such as past and present climate desertification biomass burning and its implications for atmospheric chemistry and climate energy generation sea level rise ENSO induced drought and flood adaptation disaster risk reduction the UNFCCC and Kyoto Protocol especially the Clean Development Mechanism capacity building and sustainable development It provides a comprehensive and up to date review of these and many other issues with chapters by the leading experts from a range of disciplines Climate Change and Africa will prove to be an invaluable reference for all researchers and policy makers with an interest in climate change and Africa State, Foreign Operations, and Related Programs Appropriations for 2014 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on State, Foreign Operations, and Related Programs,2013 Africa's Power Infrastructure Orvika Rosnes,Maria Shkaratan,2011 Africa s Power Infrastructure Investment Integration Efficiency is based on the most extensive data collection exercise ever undertaken on infrastructure in Africa the Africa Country Infrastructure Country Diagnostic AICD Data from this study have provided new insights on the extent of a power crisis in the region characterized by insufficient capacity low electricity connection rates high costs and poor reliability and on what can be done about it The continent faces an annual power sector financing gap of about 21 billion with much of the existing spending channeled to maintain and operate high cost power systems leaving little for the huge investments needed to provide a long term solution Meanwhile the power crisis is taking a heavy toll on economic growth and productivity This book asserts that the current impediments to economic growth and development need to be tackled through policies and investment strategies that renew efforts to reform state owned utilities build on the lessons of private participation in infrastructure projects retarget electrification strategies expand regional power trade and mobilize new funding resources Further development of regional power trade would allow Africa to harness larger scale and more cost effective energy sources reducing energy system costs by US 2 billion and carbon dioxide emissions by 70 million tons annually But reaping the promise of regional trade depends on a handful of major exporting countries raising the large volumes of finance needed to develop generation capacity for export it also requires a large number of importing countries to muster the requisite political will With increased utility efficiency and regional power trade in play power costs would fall and full cost recovery tariffs could become affordable in much of Africa This will make utilities more creditworthy and help sustain the flow of external finance to the sector which is essential to close the huge financing gap

Reforming the Power Sector in Africa M. R. Bhagavan,1999 Today the public sector in Africa like in much of the rest of the world is perceived as having led to inefficiency waste indifference and corruption in the provision of public services generally The power supply sector is now experiencing a process of restructuring and reform including privatization The contributors to this volume who are themselves involved in the policy process in their own countries examine how far this movement towards restructuring and reform has proceeded in Malawi Tanzania Uganda and Zimbabwe Based on empirical research the authors have generated policy options and scenarios that are bound to be of vital interest to policy makers and implementers throughout Sub Saharan Africa Among the key topics dealt with are the determinants of performance and efficiency vertical and horizontal unbundling of power generation distribution and sales the role of independent power producers the benefits and risks attendant on reform and privatization and the legal and regulatory framework on which everything else depends

Renewables and Energy for Rural Development in Sub-Saharan Africa M. C. Mapako,Abel Mbewe,African Energy Policy Research Network,2004 Energy supply is a key factor in economic and social development but lack of modern energy in rural areas limits efforts to alleviate poverty and improve living standards This book identifies the options for providing modern and improved renewables based energy to low income rural areas with special emphasis on the productive uses In the five countries represented Botswana Eritrea Ethiopia Zambia and Zimbabwe the contributors focus on the advantages of a decentralized approach to energy delivery the role of income generating activities in attracting modern energy services to rural areas and the barriers as well as opportunities that exist in the promotion of renewable energy technologies The African Energy Policy Research Network Afrepren has built up an enviable reputation as the Continent's foremost platform for the development African energy professionals producing policy relevant work This latest volume in their series of publications is a further contribution to addressing the practical energy needs of Sub Saharan Africa African Books in Print ,1978 Petroleum Marketing in Africa M. R. Bhagavan,1999 The Nineties saw a fundamental shift in the policy and practice governing the pricing and marketing of petroleum products in Sub Saharan Africa Strict government control was replaced by liberalisation Oil multinationals have been permitted once more to pursue their own strategies in importing and retailing petroleum products This has profound consequences for access and affordability by both urban and rural users for subsidies to ease the price burden on low income groups for tax revenues for opportunities for price fixing and oligopoly by multinationals and most importantly for generating investment for expanding the retail network beyond the metropolitan areas In this volume these issues are examined in depth in the context of two very different cases Kenya where full liberalisation has been achieved and Ethiopia where the transition from state control to liberalisation has only just begun A comparative analysis of these two cases yields valuable insights into policies and strategies that African countries need to deploy for ensuring lasting benefits from the imperative of liberalisation International Labour Documentation ,1998 Making Africa's Power Sector Sustainable ,2007 African Development Perspectives Yearbook ,1999 Zambia Jan Kees van Donge,2000 Since the launch of the Human Genome project in 1990 understanding molecular and clinical genetics has become an essential aspect of modern medical education Solid knowledge of genetics is now crucial to a host of healthcare professionals including primary care physicians nurses and physician assistants This third edition takes this information and incorporates it into a student friendly format that focuses on the core concept of human genetics Each chapter uses the same problem based approach as the previous editions and addresses the important role of genetics and disease by integrating molecular and clinical genetics International African Bibliography ,1998 The Regulation of the Power Sector in Africa Edward Marandu,Dorcas Kayo,2004-11 Attracting private investment and delivery of services to the poor majority are priority goals for reforming and regulating the power sector in Sub Saharan Africa The licensing process and the tariff regime are important determinants of new investment in the electricity industry For the licensing process to attract private investors the procedures must be clear and must function efficiently and transparently while the tariff regime must reflect actual costs This book examines the extent to which the twin goals of attracting investment and providing energy to the poor are addressed by the existing legal and regulatory framework By studying six countries in the east and southern African region

some helpful lessons worth sharing with other African countries are learned
