Microbial Mediation of Plant-Herbivore Interactions Pedro Barbosa, Vera A. Krischik, Clive G. Jones, 1991-09-03 Novel Aspects of Insect Plant Interactions Edited by Pedro Barbosa and Deborah K Letourneau Focusing on three trophic levels this study widens the current understanding of the ecological interactions between plants herbivores and their parasitoids and predators Emphasized are the mediating effects of plant derived allelochemicals on those interactions The book also covers microorganisms as mediators of intertrophic and intratrophic interactions theory and mechanisms plant effects via allelochemicals on the third trophic level and key roles of plant allelochemicals in survival strategies of herbivores 1988 0 471 83276 6 362 pp Plant Animal Interactions Evolutionary Ecology in Tropical and Temperate Regions Edited by Peter W Price Thomas M Lewinsohn G Wilson Fernandes and Woodruff W Benson An outgrowth of an international symposium on Evolutionary Ecology of Tropical Herbivores held at UNICAMP Brazil this unique collaborative effort from leading scientists worldwide is the first comparative analysis of the existing ecological systems of temperate and tropical regions In depth and timely the book's manifold analyses includes a discussion of tropical and temperate comparisons mutualistic relationships between plants and animals antagonistic relationships between plants and animals plant butterfly interactions specificity in plant utilization and community patterns in natural and agricultural systems Amply illustrated with 150 detailed graphics the book provides a fascinating visual tour of the flora and fauna described 1991 0 471 50937 X 639 pp Integrated Pest

Insect-Plant Biology Louis M. Schoonhoven, Joop J. A. van Loon, Marcel Dicke, 2005-12 Half of all insect species are dependent on living plant tissues consuming about 10% of plant annual production in natural habitats and an even greater percentage in agricultural systems despite sophisticated control measures Plants are generally remarkably well protected against insect attack with the result that most insects are highly specialized feeders The mechanisms underlying plant resistance to invading herbivores on the one side and insect food specialization on the other are the main subjects of this book For insects these include food plant selection and the complex sensory processes involved with their implications for learning and nutritional physiology as well as the endocrinological aspects of life cycle synchronization with host plant phenology In the case of plants exposed to insect herbivores they include the activation of defence systems in order to minimize damage as well as the emission of chemical signals that may attract natural enemies of the invading herbivores and may be exploited by neighbouring plants that mount defences as well Insect Plant Biology discusses the operation of these mechanisms at the molecular and organismal levels in the context of both ecological interactions and evolutionary relationships In doing so it uncovers the highly intricate antagonistic and mutualistic interactions that have evolved between plants and insects The book concludes with a chapter on the application of our knowledge of insect plant interactions to agricultural production This multidisciplinary approach will appeal to students in agricultural entomology plant sciences ecology and indeed anyone interested in the principles underlying the relationships between the two largest groups of organisms on earth plants and insects BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Insect-plant Interactions Elizabeth A. Bernays, 1992 General Technical Report PNW-GTR, 1992 Plant Responses to the Gaseous Environment A.R. Wellburn, R.G. Alscher, 2012-12-06 The study of air pollution effects on vegetation has made rapid progress in the last five years Growing concerns about effects of future increases in temperature and carbon dioxide CO<sub>2</sub> levels on plant life have altered the perspective of plant biologists in the field of pollutant plant interactions In many cases it is anticipated that crops and trees will increasingly experience multiple stresses in an altered environment an environment in which physiological processes will no longer be matched to climate Because of this problem a major part of the focus of the air pollution effects research has shifted since 1987 Moreover recent advances in our understanding of plant metabolic and molecular responses to stress have made it clear that many abiotic stresses elicit similar fundamental mechanisms. Adaptation responses to drought, extremes of temperature, xenobiotics and air pollutants are now known to involve the response of both specific and common resistance mechanisms which often include altered gene expression. The field of air pollution effects on vegetation has benefitted greatly from this unification since results obtained and advances made in allied fields are now directly relevant. The advent of molecular genetics has made possible the production of transgenic plants containing altered amounts of resistance gene products which enables the posing of experimental questions which could not be addressed only five years ago. Hypotheses concerning the relevance of specific metabolites and processes to known responses to air pollution stress can now be tested.

Plant Resistance to Arthropods C. Michael Smith, 2006-01-16 This book synthesizes new information about the environmental advantages of plant resistance, transgenic resistance, the molecular bases of resistance and the use of molecular markers to map resistance genes. Readers are presented in depth descriptions of techniques to quantify resistance factors affecting resistance expression and the deployment of resistance genes. New information about gene for gene interactions between resistant plants and arthropod biotypes is discussed along with the recent examples of using arthropod resistant plants in integrated pest management systems.
