PLATONIC LOVE

We dine at Adorno and return to my Beauvoir.
She compliments me on my Bachelard pad.
I pop in a Santayana CD and Saussure back to the couch.
On my way, I pull out two fine Kristeva wine glasses.
I pour some Merleau-Ponty and return the Aristotle to Descartes.
After pausing an Unamuno, I wrap my arm around her
Hegel.
Her hair smells of wild Lukacs and Labriola.
Our small talk expands to include Dewey, Moore and Kant.
I confess to her what's in my Eckhart. We Locke.
By this point, we're totally Blavatsky.
We stretch out on the Schopenhauer.
She slips out of her Lyotard and I fumble with my Levi-
Strauss.
She unhooks her Buber and I pull off my Spinoza.
I run my finger along her Heraclitus as she fondles my Bacon.
She stops to ask me if I brought any Kierkegaard. I nod.
We Foucault.
She lights a cigarette and compares Foucault to Lacan.
I roll over and Derrida.

Platonic Scripts Poets On Poetry:

Certain Solitudes, on the Poetry of Donald Justice (c) William Logan, 1997      For Us, What Music? Jerry Harp, 2010-12-28 When Donald Justice wrote in On a Picture by Burchfield that art keeps long hours he might have been describing his own life. Although he early on struggled to find a balance between his life and art, the latter became a way of experiencing his life more deeply. He found meaning in human experience by applying traditional religious language to his artistic vocation. Central to his work was the translation of the language of devotion to a learned American vernacular. Art not only provided him with a wealth of intrinsically worthwhile experiences but also granted rich and nuanced ways of experiencing understanding and being in the world. For Donald Justice, recipient of some of poetry's highest laurels including the Pulitzer Prize, the Bollingen Prize, and the Lannan Literary Award for Poetry, art was a way of life. Because Jerry Harp was Justice's student, his personal knowledge of his subject combined with his deep understanding of Justice's oeuvre works to remarkable advantage in For Us, What Music. Harp reads with keen intelligence, placing each poem within the precise historical moment it was written and locating it in the context of the literary tradition within which Justice worked. Throughout the text runs the narrative of Justice's life, tying together the poems and informing Harp's interpretation of them. For Us, What Music grants readers a remarkable understanding of one of America's greatest poets.

Twentieth-Century American Poetics: Poets on the Art of Poetry Dana Gioia, David Mason, Meg Schoerke, 2004 This comprehensive chronological anthology includes 58 essays on poetry by 53 poets. Starting with James Weldon Johnson and Robert Frost, the book offers diverse and often conflicting accounts of the nature and function of poetry. The collection includes rarely anthologized essays by Jack Spicer, Rhina Espaillat, Anne Stevenson, and Ron Silliman, as well as work by some of the finest younger critics in America, including William Logan, Alice Fulton, and Christian Wiman.

Questions of Possibility: Contemporary Poetry and Poetic Form David Caplan, 2006-09-26 Questions of Possibility examines the particular forms that contemporary American poets favor and those they neglect. The poets' choices reveal both their ambitions and their limitations, the new possibilities they discover, and the traditions they find unimaginable. By means of close attention to the sestina, ghazal, love sonnet, ballad, and heroic couplet, this study advances a new understanding of contemporary American poetry. Rather than pitting closed verse against open and traditional poetry against experimental, Questions of Possibility explores how poets associated with different movements inspire and inform each other's work. Discussing a range of authors from Charles Bernstein, Derek Walcott, and Marilyn Hacker to Agha Shahid Ali, David Caplan treats these poets as contemporaries who share the language, not as partisans assigned to rival camps. The most interesting contemporary poetry crosses the boundaries that literary criticism draws, synthesizing diverse influences and establishing surprising affinities. In a series of lively readings, Caplan charts the diverse characteristics and accomplishments of modern poetry, from the gay and lesbian love sonnet to the currently popular sestina.

The Oxford Handbook of Shakespearean Tragedy Michael Neill, David

Schalkwyk,2016-08-18 The Oxford Handbook of Shakespearean Tragedy presents fifty four essays by a range of scholars from all parts of the world Together these essays offer readers a fresh and comprehensive understanding of Shakespeare tragedies as both works of literature and as performance texts written by a playwright who was himself an experienced actor The opening section explores ways in which later generations of critics have shaped our idea of Shakespearean tragedy and addresses questions of genre by examining the playwright s inheritance from the classical and medieval past The second section is devoted to current textual issues while the third offers new critical readings of each of the tragedies This is set beside a group of essays that deal with performance history with screen productions and with versions devised for the operatic stage as well as with twentieth and twenty first century re workings of Shakespearean tragedy The book s final section expands readers awareness of Shakespeare s global reach tracing histories of criticism and performance across Europe the Americas Australasia the Middle East Africa India and East Asia
