Planning And Conducting Better School Ceremonies:

Planning and Conducting Better School Ceremonies Edward Wynne,1990 Initiating Restructuring at the School Site Robert J. McCarthy,1991 The Portfolio Approach to Assessment Emily Grady,1992 The shortcomings of standardized testing as the predominant form of student assessment in the United States are reviewed and the use and potential benefits of portfolio assessment are explored Children s educational experiences and their future job prospects and standards of living are being decided by test scores Moreover these test scores may be unfair or biased against some students Instead of more tests we need a new attitude toward assessment one that encourages a variety of assessments Portfolio assessment through collections of student works can be an encompassing format for this new philosophy Before considering what a portfolio should contain it is important to establish the purpose of the assessment The experiences of Vermont illustrate the development of a portfolio assessment with consistent standards Examples of guidelines for mathematics and language arts portfolios make it clear that it is possible to establish consistent practices It is also necessary to reflect on the portfolio occasionally using self evaluations and direct questions or profiles Educators also find portfolios useful tools for preservice teachers Portfolio assessment can be the framework for a new curricular structure that integrates assessment into the learning loop SLD Learning Strategies for Problem Learners Thomas P. Lombardi,1992 This pamphlet offers guidelines for educators who want to improve their use of strategy instruction with students who have inefficient and or ineffective learning strategies Specific examples of strategic teaching are provided for improving general and academic performance and suggestions are given on how to create a strategic environment consistent with strategic teaching The pamphlet begins with an outline of the steps in acquiring a learning strategy It then discusses strategies for improving general performance including strategies in the areas of organization time management memory test taking social skills speech and handwriting Strategies for improving academic performance in the areas of reading and writing spelling mathematics and other content areas are then described Suggestions for creating a supportive environment for strategy learning in the home and school are provided Guidelines for teaching strategically are noted such as use of advanced organizers brainstorming motivating and activating students modeling providing feedback and use of post organizers Contains 55 references JDD Using Paraeducators Effectively in the Classroom Anna Lou Pickett,Stanley F. State Academies for the Academically Gifted James E. Green, 1993 This guide to residential state academies for academically gifted high school students discusses the history of this movement student characteristics curricula faculty outreach programs and evaluation The establishment of the nine existing state institutions is traced from the prototype the North Carolina School for Science and Mathematics to the most recent established in Alabama in 1991 Reasons for such schools are given ranging from the specialized curricula needed by such students to their need for peer support The question of elitism is addressed suggesting that such schools actually are egalitarian in that they provide an opportunity for all students from both poor and wealthy regions of the state to go as far as they can The various selection processes are described and compared noting that the use of holistic methods rather than standardized tests results in enrollments more consistent with the demographic profiles of the state's population Curricula are discussed with special focus on the Indiana Academy Curriculum Criteria for selecting faculty are then briefly considered as are state academy outreach programs The lack of comprehensive and systematic evaluation of these new institutions is noted Contains 21 references DB

Restructuring an Urban High School Donn Weinholtz, 1991 This booklet challenges assumptions about the hopelessness of educational reform in urban high schools by presenting the stories of 1 TheodoreSizer's Coalition of Essential Schools and

2 Metro High School in Cedar Rapids Iowa a school that participates in the Coalition Following an introduction the Coalition of Essential Schools program is described including a listing of nine common principles for the Coalition of Essential Schools and data on attendance academic performance discipline and the pursuit of higher education the success of Coalition schools is indicated Another section describes the experiences the students the school climate and the faculty of Metro High School which joined the Coalition in 1985 A section on the school administrators describes what was originally supervision by three lead teachers and the current on site principal who functions much as a lead teacher A section on academics describes a curriculum that has focused on basic skills and practical electives with an increasing emphasis on accelerated academic coursework in recent years Also described are Metro High School s vocademics program which helps students explore career choices and a report of data indicating positive outcomes at this school A concluding section offers reflections on the Metro High School experience and final thoughts Fourteen references are included JB School-University Collaboration Jill Frymier Russell, Richard Bernard Flynn, Richard B. Flynn, 1992 Cooperation-competition Edward Wynne, 1995 Defines cooperation competition as a learning technique incorporating intergroup strenght with individual competition and discusses how it can increase learning motivation Restructuring Early Childhood Education Michael F. Kelley, Elaine Surbeck, 1991 The first of six national educational goals proclaimed by President Bush to be accomplished by the year 2000 is that all children will start school ready to learn This booklet examines this goal in terms of what it will take to ensure that all children develop the capacities or readiness to be successful in school In the introduction it is asserted that for children and families to succeed in the lifelong process of learning early childhood experiences both in and out of the home must be as personalized as possible The first chapter looks at the early childhood years and the concept of school readiness The second chapter explains why restructuring rather than reform of early childhood education is needed A framework for providing comprehensive intervention services is discussed in the third chapter The fourth chapter profiles programs in Missouri Minnesota and California that seek to broaden the role of schools in early childhood education The fifth chapter examines curriculum issues intrinsic to a restructuring of early childhood education The sixth chapter deals with appropriate methods for child assessment In a concluding section it is argued that services for children and families be coordinated and that early childhood education be restructured to become personalized and family centered HTH
