Plastics Stephan Engelsmann, Valerie Spalding, Stefan Peters, 2012-11-05 Plastics are high performance materials of wide use in the built environment Their versatile technical properties are particularly fascinating A broad range of form giving and finishing processes makes plastic especially interesting for complex geometries in combination with digital planning processes Following the pioneering plastic structures of the 1970s a number of spectacular buildings have in recent years highlighted the outstanding technical and aesthetic potential of the material Until now however there has been no systematic treatment of the use of plastic in architecture This book seeks to fill that gap by providing an introduction to the structural and design possibilities of plastic It introduces the material and its specific characteristics describes various types of plastic in terms of their relevance for building explains processing technologies and presents typical products and components A concise presentation of twenty five international built projects organized by the type of application and the plastic involved documents the broad range of plastic in architecture Finally a look ahead at the future describes the current state of the art in materials research

Permanent Change Michael Bell, Craig Buckley, 2014-04-15 Almost every industry in the world has benefited from the invention of plastics but it is only in the recent past that they have begun to be appreciated as architectural materials in their own right Plastics are quickly becoming one of the most ubiquitous materials in construction and have the potential to reshape the roles of architects and engineers as well as the construction industry at large As a building material plastic allows for easily molded and formed shapes leading to increasingly malleable design processes Despite being the most deeply engineered building materials today plastics are still in the nascent stages of understanding in terms of their potential applications and uses In Permanent Change an interdisciplinary group of architects historians theorists and engineers collectively explore the past present and future possibilities of this innovative building material
