Risks and Problem Behaviors in Adolescence Richard M. Lerner, Christine M. Ohannessian, 1999 First Published in 1999 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Risks and Problem Behaviors in Adolescence Richard M. Lerner, Christine M. Ohannessian, 2014-02-04 The articles in this volume illustrate how development is propelled by the bidirectional relations that occur between the person and all levels of the context The authors argue that adolescent life is embedded in a complicated developmental system involving multiple features of the individual e g biology emotions personality and cognition and the multiple levels of his or her social ecology e g peers family school the workplace and the public policy and legal systems that structure and impact behavioural opportunities for and the actions of adolescents These articles have important implications for the design of interventions aimed at adolescent problem behaviours The Relationship Between Risk Factors and Problem Behaviors in Adolescence Heejung Chun, 2007 This investigation addressed adolescents problem behaviors such as school failure violence and substance use along with casual sex by identifying a general risk factor and a general problem behavior factor In this study the data were derived from a nationally representative dataset commonly called ADD Health dataset The participants were 6504 adolescents in grades 7 through 12 Testing three research questions and one research hypothesis the existences of the general risk factor and the general problem behavior factor were supported In addition the hypothesized model that describes the influence of the general risk factor on the general problem behavior factor was supported indicating a strong close relationship between these two latent factors Lastly the hypothesized model was tested with multiple group analyses for gender grade level and ethnic racial groups The interlinked nature of the risk statuses shared and unique variances of individual problem behaviors and the implications of the study to prevention and intervention programs are discussed Protective and Risk Factors for Problem Health Behaviors Among American Indian Adolescents Pamela Lena LeMaster, 1997 Risk Behaviors in Maltreated Adolescents Heather Nicole Taussig, 1998 Maltreated youth are at risk of experiencing a host of short and long term consequences Although many studies have examined these outcomes few have examined the impact of maltreatment prospectively to determine what early responses might predict later functioning The current study examined risk behaviors in a cohort of adolescents who were removed from their homes as a result of maltreatment approximately five years ago Shortly after their removal the youth and their caretakers were interviewed about the youth s emotional social and behavioral functioning The current study re interviewed those youth to determine their involvement in four domains of risk behavior sexual delinquent substance use and self destructive behaviors Information collected during the initial interview Time 1 was used to explore whether specific vulnerability and protective factors predicted differential engagement in risk behaviors The majority of the eligible subjects were located and interviewed 75% n 149 The interviewed group of subjects did not differ from the non interviewed group in any systematic ways Descriptive analyses suggested that this cohort of youth had engaged in a substantial number of risk behaviors which were related to experiencing a host of negative consequences. The four domains of risk behavior loaded on a single factor that accounted for 65% of the variance supporting the concept of a unitary construct of risk behavior. Bivariate analyses suggested that risk behaviors were positively correlated  $r$  range .17-.66 with negative outcomes e.g. pregnancies, arrests, residential treatment. The analyses also suggested that the Time 1 variables were related to current engagement in risk behaviors. For example, higher levels of externalizing behaviors and posttraumatic stress and lower levels of parental support were related to increased involvement in risk behaviors in adolescence  $r$  range .16-.52. Hierarchical regression models demonstrated that a significant proportion of the variance in risk behaviors was accounted for by the overall models  $R^2$  range .10-.36 with the predictor variables significant over and above the control variables  $R^2$  change range .05-.25. These findings have implications for the specificity versus generality of risk behaviors debate. The limitations of the study as well as the implications of these findings for intervention efforts were discussed. High Risk
