

You might think I'm annoying for saying this (understandably), but I really think Spike should've been made an Element in season 8 instead of the Young Six. Spike does prove to be helpful in certain situations, such as helping to get Flash Magnus' shield from Garble in Shadow Play, but also in Shadow Play he's noticeably the only one out of the heroes who doesn't help to pull Stygian from his darkness. He doesn't have unicorn magic like Starlight and Sunburst, and he doesn't have Element magic like the Mane Six and Pillars. I think it would've been great both character development wise and storywise if he was revealed to be a hidden 7th Element, with Scorpan being his Pillar. So they would be the first non-ponies to be connected to the Tree, unlike the Young Six.

The Power of International Theory Fred Chernoff, 2012-12-06 This new study challenges how we think about international relations presenting an analysis of current trends and insights into new directions It shows how the discipline of international relations was created with a purpose of helping policy makers to build a more peaceful and just world However many of the current trends post positivism constructivism reflectivism and post modernism share a conception of international theory that is inherently incapable of offering significant guidance to policy makers The Power of International Theory critically examines these approaches and offers a novel conventional causal alternative that allows the reforging of a link between IR theory and policy making While recognizing the criticisms of earlier forms of positivism and behaviouralism the book defends holistic testing of empirical principles methodological pluralism criteria for choosing the best theory a notion of causality and a limited form of prediction all of which are needed to guide policy makers This is an essential book for all students and scholars of international relations
