Shameful Autobiographies Rosamund Dalziell, 1999 Writing autobiography is a risky business What is shameful can be inadvertently rather than deliberately revealed Yet reading autobiography can also be risky as it may lead to the confrontation of shame in ourselves Perhaps it is this element of risk together with the magnetism of another person's confession of shameful experience that make us such avid readers of autobiography Rosamund Dalziell proposes that shame is the driving force in many Australian autobiographies Indeed she suggests that the representation of shame is fundamental to the autobiographical process Shame seeks concealment and this she argues explains both why this fascinating link has not before been explored and why when it is pointed out we immediately know it to be authentic Shameful Autobiographies looks at pervasive patterns of shame in the autobiographies of such leading Australian writers as Germaine Greer Sally Morgan Bernard Smith Kathleen Fitzpatrick Morris Lurie Ruby Langford Ginibi and Robert Dessaix In so doing it establishes the centrality of shame to problems of Australian identity and to current political debate for instance it is shame that fuels angry repudiations of the so called black armband view of history The calm clarity of Rosamund Dalziell's writing strengthens her powerful insights and arguments the most potent of which is that autobiographical confrontation with shame can heal deep wounds both for writers and for readers This mature and innovative book will enrich the experience of all readers of autobiography

In Quest of an Ideal Edmond Holmes, 2016-10-05 Excerpt from In Quest of an Ideal An Autobiography I have spent the greater part of my life in quest Of an emancipative an illuminative and a regulative ideal an ideal which would give a meaning to life and a purpose to my life and in doing so would deliver me from thralldom to aims and ambitions which even While they dominated me I felt to be unworthy of my better self The quest has been in a sense its own reward for it has lured me on beyond all familiar horizons and Opened up infinite vistas to the desires of my heart and the imaginations of my mind And the nearer I have come to conscious intercourse with the ideal the more clearly do I see that under various disguises it has been my guide through all the years of pilgrimage and pursuit About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
