Personal Recollections Of Harvey Wood:

Personal Recollections of Harvey Wood Harvey Wood, 1955 Personal Recollections of Harvey Wood Harvey Wood, 1896 Melones Julia G. Costello, 1983 Mangas Coloradas, Chief of the Chiricahua Apaches Edwin Russell Sweeney, 1998 The first full length life of the Apache warrior leader Mangas Coloradas describes his outstanding qualities the Apache culture in which he rose to power and the battles against white and Mexican settlements in New Mexico that made him widely feared UP The National Union Catalog, Pre-1956 Imprints, 1968 The Library of Dr. Roger K. Larson, 1995 Roaring Camp Susan Lee Johnson, 2016-12-07 Winner of the Bancroft Prize The world of the California Gold Rush that comes down to us through fiction and film is one of half truths In this brilliant work of social history Susan Lee Johnson enters the well worked diggings of Gold Rush history and strikes a rich lode Johnson explores the dynamic social world created by the Gold Rush in the Sierra Nevada foothills east of Stockton charting the surprising ways in which the conventions of identity ethnic national and sexual were reshaped With a keen eye for character and story she shows us how this peculiar world evolved over time and how our cultural memory of the Gold Rush took root Surviving Conquest Timothy Braatz, 2003-01-01 Surviving Conquest is a history of the Yavapai Indians who have lived for centuries in central Arizona Although primarily concerned with survival in a desert environment early Yavapais were also involved in a complex network of alliances rivalries and trade In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries European missionaries and colonizers moved into the region bringing diseases livestock and a desire for Indian labor Beginning in 1863 U S settlers and soldiers invaded Yavapai lands established farms towns and forts and initiated murderous campaigns against Yavapai families Historian Timothy Braatz shows how Yavapais responded in a variety of ways to the violations that disrupted their hunting and gathering economies and threatened their survival In the 1860s some stole from American settlements and some turned to wage work Yavapais also asked U S officials to establish reservations where they could live safe from attack in their homelands Despite the Yavapais successful efforts to become sedentary farmers in 1875 U S officials relocated them across Arizona to the San Carlos Apache Reservation For the next twenty five years they remained in exile but were determined to return home They joined the commercial Arizona economy repeatedly requested permission to leave San Carlos and repeatedly denied left anyway a few families at a time By 1901 nearly all had returned to Yavapai lands and through persistence and savvy lobbying eventually received three federally recognized reservations Drawing on in depth archival research and accounts recorded in the early twentieth century by a Yavapai named Mike Burns Braatz tells the story of the Yavapais and their changing world Bibliography of American Imprints to 1901: Main part, 1993 Calaveras Gold Ronald H. Limbaugh, Willard P. Fuller, 2003-10-01 California s Calaveras County made famous by Mark Twain and his celebrated Jumping Frog is the focus of this comprehensive study of Mother Lode mining Most histories of the California Mother Lode have focused on the mines around the American and Yuba Rivers However the Southern Mines those centered around Calaveras County in the central Sierra were also important in the development of California's mineral wealth. Calaveras Gold offers a detailed and meticulously researched history of mining and its economic impact in this region from the first discoveries in the 1840s until the present. Mining in Calaveras County covered the full spectrum of technology from the earliest placer efforts through drift and hydraulic mining to advanced hard rock industrial mining. Subsidiary industries such as agriculture, transportation, lumbering, and water supply, as well as a complex social and political structure developed around the mines. The authors examine the roles of race, gender, and class in this frontier society, the generation and distribution of capital, and the impact of the mines on the development of political and cultural institutions. They also look at the impact of mining on the Native American population, the realities of day-to-day life in the mining camps, the development of agriculture and commerce, the occurrence of crime and violence, and the cosmopolitan nature of the population. Calaveras County mining continued well into the twentieth century, and the authors examine the ways that mining practices changed as the ores were depleted and how the communities evolved from mining camps into permanent towns with new economic foundations and directions. Mining is no longer the basis of Calaveras's economy, but memories of the great days of the Mother Lode still attract tourists who bring a new form of wealth to the region.

American Studies Janice A. Radway, Kevin Gaines, Barry Shank, Penny Von Eschen, 2009-03-09. American Studies is a vigorous, bold account of the changes in the field of American Studies over the last thirty-five years. Through this set of carefully selected key essays by an editorial board of expert scholars, the book demonstrates how changes in the field have produced new genealogies that tell different histories of both America and the study of America. Charts the evolution of American Studies from the end of World War II to the present day by showcasing the best scholarship in this field. An introductory essay by the distinguished editorial board highlights developments in the field and places each essay in its historical and theoretical context. Explores topics such as American politics, history, culture, race, gender, and working life. Shows how changing perspectives have enabled older concepts to emerge in a different context.
