Human Relationships Steve Duck, 1986 While most introductory social psychology textbooks do an excellent job of outlining the field and presenting current research they often seem to be unrelated to real life because they undervalue the substructure of social behaviour our relationships with other people The intention of this unique book is to make the study of social psychology a living reflection of students everyday experiences through the study of relationships Human Relationships will not supplant the instructor s chosen introductory text but will instead supplement it to give students an exciting glimpse into the psychology of their own lives Professor Duck who has played a major international role in the establishment of the new science of personal relationships skilfully interweaves current research on interpersonal emotions with traditional social psychology topics to demonstrate conclusively that relationships form the basis for our mental and physical well being Thus the book offers information to students about key areas of research in the field while asking them to relate it to their own lives and showing them its subtle interconnections with other areas of social psychology Chapters introduce questions frequently asked by undergraduates such as why some people are lonely or shy what is jealousy how do people fall in and out of love why some children are unpopular how children are affected by their parents divorce In addition the book includes sections on sociolinguistics and the role of speech styles in social behaviour non verbal communication social skills physician patient relationships the social psychology of death and bereavement social anxiety and the repair of deteriorating relationships Human Relationships gives strong teaching support to instructors by encouraging students to consider familiar emotions and experiences analytically and to interpret them through research An appendix contains library and research skills instruction thought exercises practical exercises and suggestions for further research Steve Duck has not only written a book that will stimulate and supplement students interest in social psychology but has also added the definitive text on personal relationships to the professional psychologist s library Inquiring Man Donald Bannister, Fay Fransella, 2013-01-11 A completely revised and updated edition of the classic introduction to Kelly s theory of Personal Constructs Intimate Relationships and How to Improve Them Luciano L'Abate, Piero DeGiacomo, 2003-04-30 This volume intergrates one contextual developmental and relational theory of personality socialization in the family and other settings with a complementary model of relational styles Both the theory and the model share complementary characteristics of replicable operations in laboratory evaluation and in preventative and psychotherapeutic interventions in problems with intimate relationships Further both the theory and the model are linked to two major models of personality and intimate relationships the circumplex and attachment respectively The theory s 15 models are derived from a variety of social psychological sources including the social comparison model and resource exchange theory in social psychology The complementary model Elementary Pragmatic owes its origins to communication and systems theories going beyond them in specificity and applications Scholars and researchers looking for novel and original ideas demonstrating how to link theory with practice and evaluation with interventions will find this volume of interest Handbook of Interpersonal Communication Mark L. Knapp, Gerald R. Miller, 1985-11 Knapp and Miller present the first comprehensive review of the state of the art in interpersonal communication research The Handbook of Interpersonal Communication is a definitive reference source authored by an outstanding international group of communication researchers While the contributors take diverse conceptual theoretical and epistemological approaches to the study of human communication several common themes run throughout the book a focus on behaviour a focus on time a focus on social cognition a concern with control and a concern with individual differences
