Perspecton Industrial Archaeo:

The African diaspora: An archaeological perspective The Open University, With a focus on slavery this 4 hour free course explored how archaeology can contribute to the study of the African diaspora Archaeometallurgy in Global Perspective Benjamin W. Roberts, Christopher P. Thornton, 2014-01-07 The study of ancient metals in their social and cultural contexts has been a topic of considerable interest in archaeology and ancient history for decades partly due to the modern dependence on technology and man made materials The formal study of Archaeometallurgy began in the 1970s 1980s and has seen a recent growth in techniques data and theoretical movements This comprehensive sourcebook on Archaeometallurgy provides an overview of earlier research as well as a review of modern techniques written in an approachable way Covering an extensive range of archaeological time periods and regions this volume will be a valuable resource for those studying archaeology worldwide It provides a clear straightforward look at the available methodologies including Smelting processes Slag analysis Technical Ceramics Archaeology of Mining and Field Survey Ethnoarchaeology Chemical Analysis and Provenance Studies Conservation Studies With chapters focused on most geographic regions of Archaeometallurgical inquiry researchers will find practical applications for metallurgical techniques in any area of their study Ben Roberts is a specialist in the early metallurgy and later prehistoric archaeology of Europe He was the Curator of the European Copper and Bronze Age collections at the British Museum between 2007 and 2012 and is now a Lecturer in Prehistoric Europe in the Department of Archaeology at the Durham University UK Chris Thornton is a specialist in the ancient metallurgy of the Middle East combining anthropological theory with archaeometrical analysis to understand the development and diffusion of metallurgical technologies throughout Eurasia He is currently a Consulting Scholar of the University of Pennsylvania Museum where he received his PhD in 2009 and the Lead Program Officer of research grants at the National Geographic Society Industrial Archaeology Emory L. Kemp, 1996 Industrial archaeology is a flourishing discipline which seeks to document America's rich industrial heritage through measured drawings archival photographs and contextual site histories With increasing interest in historic industrial sites a shortage exists of those capable of undertaking site documentation Thus the purpose of this book is to provide information for historians archaeologists architects engineers and other professionals It is also intended for graduate courses and for professionals in public and private service wishing to gain a basic understanding of the discipline Pour Une Perspective Pluraliste Et Tolérante de L'enseignement de L'histoire Marc Ferro, Henry Frendo, Council of Europe, Council of Europe. Council for Cultural Co-operation, 1999-01-01 The Family in Past Perspective Ellen J. Kendall, Ross Kendall, 2021-05-30 This volume takes a more comprehensive view of past familial dynamics than has been previously attempted By applying interdisciplinary perspectives to periods ranging from the Prehistoric to the Modern it informs a wider understanding of the term family and the implications of family dynamics for children and their social networks in the past Contributors drawn from across the humanities and social sciences present research addressing three primary themes modes of kinship and familial structure the convergence and divergence between the idealised image and realities of family life and the provision of care within families These themes are interconnected as the idea and image of family shapes familial structure which in turn defines the type of care and protection that families provide to their members The papers in this volume provide new research to challenge assumptions and provoke new ways of thinking about past families as functionally adaptive socially connected and ideologically powerful units of society just as they are in the present A broad focus on the networks created by familial units also allows the experiences of historically underrepresented women and children to be highlighted in a way that underlines their interconnectedness with all members of past societies The Family in Past Perspective builds a much needed bridge across disciplinary boundaries The wide scope of the book makes important contributions and informs fields ranging from bioarchaeology to women's history and childhood studies

Public History in Global Perspective Georgina Laragy, Richard Legay, Ciaran O'Neill, Hannah K. Smyth, 2025-07-21 Where should public history sit within the matrix of global international trans national and more local histories Since its emergence in the 1970s Public History has typically been read as community oriented and more local in its applications The academic field in particular has developed along national lines and indeed we see in the many monographs edited books and journals that have emerged a distinct tendency to consider public history as understandable mostly in its relation to the nation state and its attendant mythologies The meta narratives that public history pushes against are the building blocks of national histories political military and heroic histories Conceiving of a global public history seems to have more radical potential than an international public history which arguably simply collects these national histories What would a global public history look like and how can it disrupt the field if interpreted radically This book will centre the work of scholars and professionals in the field of Public History It will offer novel reflections on postgraduate Public History learning work experience and application from recent graduates and partnered institutions A mix of theory and practice traditional and creative methodologies it demonstrates the value of integrating work experience practitioner workshops and close collaboration in Public History training
