Hollingsworth,2002 Risks to Students in School ,1995 Every day school aged children encounter a wide variety of hazards that occur both outside and inside schools This document presents findings of a report that examined the scientific data on the risks for student injury and illness in the school environment The information is designed to help administrators set priorities for reducing risks to students The report focuses on the risks that students between 5 to 18 years old encounter while they are at school on the school grounds at school related activities and traveling to and from school Key findings include 1 The two leading causes of death in school aged children are motor vehicles and firearms however relatively few of these deaths occur in schools or on school buses 2 quite often the relative safety of schools on a national average basis is unknown and 3 schools contribute to the risks of injury or illness in school aged children however little is known about schools contribution to nonfatal illness and injury Finally national data particularly for environmental hazards were usually inadequate to assess the risks to students Data are presented for incidence of unintentional injuries including playground related school athletics transportation school bus related pedestrian injuries along with data for intentional injuries including school associated violent deaths and weapons Information is presented for illness caused by environmental hazards such as asbestos and lead and for those that arise from exposure to infectious agents Suggestions for comparing and managing risks are offered References accompany each chapter Eight figures and 35 tables are included LMI Pesticides United States. Levine,2007-03-30 Pesticide exposure has long been a cause for concern and with good reason Studies have shown that all persons but especially children pregnant women farmers farmworkers and the elderly may experience negative health effects from pesticide exposure These effects may include acute poisoning cancer neurological damage birth defects reduced sperm count suppressed immune systems and reproductive and developmental harm This book is a comprehensive examination of pesticide use pesticide harm and alternatives to harmful pesticides Levine highlights the role of farming because a substantial majority 70 percent or more annually of pesticides are applied in agricultural uses thereby making their way into the food chain and into the water supply More than 20 types of pesticides have been detected in U S groundwater and it is believed that nearly 100 have the potential to invade our municipal water systems Some level of pesticide contamination has been detected in every state in both urban and agricultural areas Outside of agriculture people are exposed to pesticides primarily in the home Approximately 90 percent of all households in the nation use pesticides and the number and concentration of these agents indoors has been shown to be greater than outdoors Given that Americans now spend nearly 90 percent of each day indoors this is an issue of real concern In addition to homes suburban and rural corporate parks are also affected Schools are another worrisome venue In too many of our 110 000 school districts untrained persons are making critical decisions about the use of pesticides in school buildings and on school grounds No other book currently examines this issue in such breadth and depth SHI ,2005 Resources to help schools assess and improve its physical activity health eating tobacco use prevention safety and asthma policies and programs
