Personality Development In Adulthood:

Personality Development in Adulthood Lawrence S. Wrightsman, 1988-06 Using three broad theoretical perspectives early formation theory stage theory and dialectic analysis Personality Development in Adulthood provides highly contrasting answers to these and other questions Each perspective is described the methods used to evaluate them are considered and the quality of supportive evidence is examined The book then applies concepts and findings from each perspective to numerous aspects of adulthood occupational and career shifts sex role development marriage and other intimate relationships sexual behavior changes in values and attitudes toward death and dying Examples of personality in such diverse figures as Luther and Nixon serve to illuminate and clarify the various methodologies presented Personality Development Across the Lifespan Jule Specht, 2017-03-17 Personality Development across the Lifespan examines the development of personality characteristics from childhood adolescence emerging adulthood adulthood and old age It provides a comprehensive overview of theoretical perspectives methods and empirical findings of personality and developmental psychology also detailing insights on how individuals differ from each other how they change during life and how these changes relate to biological and environmental factors including major life events social relationships and health The book begins with chapters on personality development in different life phases before moving on to theoretical perspectives the development of specific personality characteristics and personality development in relation to different contexts like close others health and culture Final sections cover methods in research on the topic and the future directions of research in personality development Introduces and reviews the most important personality characteristics Examines personality in relation to different contexts and how it is related to important life outcomes Discusses patterns and sources of personality development Personality Development in Adulthood Petar Milojev, 2016 The development of personality in adulthood remains a topic of debate with direct implications for the conceptualisation of personality traits McCrae Roberts et al 2008 However with notable exceptions comprehensive longitudinal investigations of the development of personality traits across a broad range of the adult life span are surprisingly rare Through four systematic longitudinal investigations the present thesis investigates the change and stability in the Big Six personality traits Extraversion Agreeableness Conscientiousness Neuroticism Openness to Experience and Honesty Humility in a nationally representative panel study of adult New Zealanders Study 1 demonstrated the very high stability of the six traits thus confirming the prediction of high temporal stability of personality traits This study also provided the crucial test of the test retest reliability of the personality scales used throughout this thesis Study 2 demonstrated the systematic variability in the stability of personality traits across the adult life span That is personality traits tend to stabilise across younger adulthood reach peak stability in middle age i e late 40 s and early 50 s and systematically destabilise thereafter The findings of Study 3 indicated remarkable consistency in personality traits associated with a major natural disaster namely the 2010 2011 Earthquakes in Canterbury New Zealand

The only meanlevel change from before to after the earthquakes was a small decrease in Emotional Stability or an increase in Neuroticism among those affected by the event Finally Study 4 investigated normative patterns of mean level change in personality traits and identified distinct developmental trajectories for the different traits with changes occurring across the entire adult life span Collectively these studies paint an interesting picture of both stability and change in personality traits highlighting the need for an integrated perspective on personality development one that incorporates both the intrinsic stability of the construct and early development as well the continuing process of change Adult Personality

PERSONALITY Personality refers to the unique combination of traits, behaviors, and characteristics that define an individual's way of thinking, feeling, and behaving. It is what makes each person distinct and sets them apart from others. Personality is a complex and multi-dimensional construct that encompasses a wide range of traits, including temperament, attitudes, values, beliefs, and coping styles.

The Developing Structure of Temperament and Personality From Infancy To Adulthood Charles F. Halverson, Jr., Gedolph A. Kohnstamm, Roy P. Martin, Charles F. Halverson, Geldolph A. Kohnstamm, 2014-05-12. This book is the first to bring together researchers in individual differences in personality and temperament to explore whether there is any unity possible between the temperament researchers of infancy and childhood and the major researchers in adult personality. Prior to the workshop which resulted in this volume, the existing literature seemed to document a growing consensus on the part of the adult personality researchers that five major personality dimensions, the Big Five, might be sufficient to account for most of the important variances in adult individual differences in personality. In contrast to this, according to the literature on child and infant individual differences, seemed to offer a wide variety of opinions regarding the basic dimensions of difference in personality or temperament. The editors believed that they could encourage researchers from both the adult and child areas to consider the importance of a lifespan conceptualization of individual differences by discussing their research in terms of a continuity approach. Written by some of the most distinguished scholars from Great Britain, continental Western Europe, and Eastern Europe as well as the United States and Canada, the chapters present a cross-cultural view of both adult personality and temperament in infancy and childhood. By sharing their recent data, techniques, and theoretical speculations, the chapter authors communicate the research enthusiasm engendered by the growing consensus of the adult Big Five as well as the exciting prospects of an integrative program of research from infancy to adulthood that will clarify and consolidate what is now a disparate set of methods theory and findings across the lifespan The editors suggest that this volume will have considerable heuristic value in stimulating researchers to conceptualize their work in developmental lifespan approaches that will lead to a consolidation of individual differences research at every age
