Things coming back to normal during the 1990s will be a good outcome. There must always be a balance between government control and free-market forces. Increasingly, it will be "government" in America. Government has been too weak, and needs a commitment to the free-market system. There is a need for government's self-regulation, proper regulation, to give us freedom, and government's power to regulate. We are not communists, we think.

Other commentators on corruption claim culture (the moral imperative) to be the key factor in the development of states, as there is no doubt the differences in the level of trust amongst the citizens of different countries, amongst them, south-east Asian states, eastern Europe, etc. It is often claimed that the 'Asian' (Confucian) view of the subject is 'corruption is all right'.

Perspecta 34 Temporary Architecture:

Temporary Architecture Noah K. Biklen, Ameet N. Hiremath, Hannah H. Purdy, 2003 An exploration of various manifestations of the idea of the temporary in modern and contemporary architecture Perspecta, 2004 exlibris

Giovanni Corbellini, 2022-05-18 Architects write a lot especially now when conceptual aspects have become central in the advanced reflections and narrative forms increasingly intersect the quest of design practices for an ultimate legitimization In the growing mass of the publishing offer these keywords try to highlight recurrent issues tracking synthetic paths of orientation between different critical positions with particular attention to what happens in the neighbouring fields of the arts and sciences Lewis.Tsurumaki.Lewis Paul Lewis, Marc Tsurumaki, David J. Lewis, 2008 What if the constraints and limitations of architecture became the catalyst for design invention The award winning young architecture firm Lewis Tsurumaki Lewis calls their answers to this question opportunistic architecture It is a design philosophy that transforms the typically restrictive conditions of architectural practice small budgets awkward spaces strict zoning into generators of architectural innovation Lewis Tsurumaki Lewis presents a diverse selection of built and speculative projects ranging from small installations to larger institutional buildings Built projects are accompanied by thought provoking texts beautiful drawings and photographs An appendix distills their design philosophy into five tactics a readymade code for students and practitioners looking for design ideas for the real world Lewis Tsurumaki Lewis is an architecture partnership established in New York City in 1997 by Marc Tsurumaki Paul Lewis and David J Lewis Paul Lewis is Assistant Professor at Princeton University Marc Tsurumaki is Adjunct Professor at Columbia University David J Lewis is Associate Professor at Parsons The New School for Design The Place of Silence Mark Dorrian, Christos Kakalis, 2020-02-06 The Place of Silence explores the poetics and politics of silence in architecture Bringing together contributions by internationally recognized scholars in architecture and the humanities it explores the diverse practices affects politics and cultural meanings of silence silent places and silent buildings in historical and contemporary contexts What counts as silence in specific situations is highly relative and the term itself carries complex and varied significations which make it a revealing field of study Chapters explore a range of themes from the apparent loss of silence in the contemporary urban world through designed silent spaces to the forced silences of oppression catastrophe or technological breakdown The book unfolds a rich and complementary array of perspectives which address through the lens of architecture and place questions of sound atmosphere and attunement together building a volume which will form the key scholarly resource on architecture and silence Choice, 2003 Obsolescence Daniel M. Abramson, 2016-02-12 In our architectural pursuits we often seem to be in search of something newer grander or more efficient and this phenomenon is not novel In the spring of 1910 hundreds of workers labored day and night to demolish the Gillender Building in New York once the loftiest office tower in the world in order to make way for a taller skyscraper The New York Times puzzled over those who would sacrifice the thirteen year old structure as ruthlessly as though it were some ancient shack In New York alone the Gillender joined the original Grand Central Terminal the Plaza Hotel the Western Union Building and the Tower Building on the list of just one generation s razed metropolitan monuments In the innovative and wide ranging Obsolescence Daniel M Abramson investigates this notion of architectural expendability and the logic by which buildings lose their value and utility The idea that the new necessarily outperforms and makes superfluous the old Abramson argues helps people come to terms with modernity and capitalism s fast paced change Obsolescence then gives an unsettling experience purpose and meaning Belief in obsolescence as Abramson shows also profoundly affects architectural design In the 1960s many architects worldwide accepted the inevitability of obsolescence experimenting with flexible modular designs from open plan schools offices labs and museums to vast megastructural frames and indeterminate building complexes Some architects went so far as to embrace obsolescence s liberating promise to cast aside convention and habit envisioning expendable short life buildings that embodied human choice and freedom Others we learn were horrified by the implications of this ephemerality and waste and their resistance eventually set the stage for our turn to sustainability the conservation rather than disposal of resources Abramson s fascinating tour of our idea of obsolescence culminates in an assessment of recent manifestations of sustainability from adaptive reuse and historic preservation to postmodernism and green design which all struggle to comprehend and manage the changes that challenge us on all sides
