Perspective Without Pain:

Perspective Without Pain Phil Metzger, 1991 Perspective Without Pain Phil Metzger, 1991 Perspective Without Pain Philip W. Metzger, Perspective Without Pain Philip William Metzger, 1997 Design First for 3D Artists Geoffrey Kater, 2005-11-30 Perspective Taking: building a neurocognitive framework for integrating the “social” and the “spatial” Klaus Kessler, Sarah H Creem-Regehr, Antonia Hamilton, 2015-06-08

Background Interacting with other people involves spatial awareness of one's own body and the other's body and viewpoint. In the past, social cognition has focused largely on belief reasoning which is abstracted away from spatial and bodily representations while there is a strong tradition of work on spatial and object representation which does not consider social interactions. These two domains have flourished independently. A small but growing body of research examines how awareness of space and body relates to the ability to interpret and interact with others. This also builds on the growing awareness that many cognitive processes are embodied which could be of relevance for the integration of the social and spatial domains. Online mental transformations of spatial representations have been shown to rely on simulated body movements and various aspects of social interaction have been related to the simulation of a conspecific's behaviour within the observer's bodily repertoire. Both dimensions of embodied transformations or mappings seem to serve the purpose of establishing alignment between the observer and a target. In spatial cognition research, the target is spatially defined as a particular viewpoint or frame of reference. FOR yet in social interaction research, another viewpoint is occupied by another's mind which crucially requires perspective taking in the sense of considering what another person experiences from a different viewpoint. Perspective taking has been studied in different ways within developmental psychology, cognitive psychology, psycholinguistics, neuropsychology and cognitive neuroscience over the last few decades yet integrative approaches for channelling all information into a unified account of perspective taking and viewpoint transformations have not been presented so far.

Aims This Research Topic aims to bring together the social and the spatial and to highlight findings and methods which can unify research across areas. In particular, the topic aims to advance our current theories and set the stage for future developments of the field by clarifying and linking theoretical concepts across disciplines.

Scope The focus of this Research Topic is on the SPATIAL and the SOCIAL and we anticipate that all submissions will touch on both aspects and will explicitly attempt to bridge conceptual gaps. Social questions could include questions of how people judge another person's viewpoint or spatial capacities or how they imagine themselves from different points of view. Spatial questions could include consideration of different physical configurations of the body and the arrangement of different viewpoints including mental rotation of objects or viewpoints that have social relevance. Questions could also relate to how individual differences in personality, sex, development, culture, species, etc. influence or determine social and spatial perspective judgements. Many different methods can be used to explore perspective taking including mental chronometry, behavioural tasks, EEG, MEG and fMRI, child development, neuropsychological patients.

virtual reality and more Bringing together results and approaches from these different domains is a key aim of this Research Topic We welcome submissions of experimental papers reviews and theory papers which cover these topics Renaissance eLearning Samantha Chapnick,Jimm Meloy,2005-05-25 The same people who brought you the most widely used guide to preparing for eLearning are bringing passion back to your learning and training programs The authors culled through over 400 eLearning programs hundreds of popular entertainment pieces and interviews with over 100 people in widely disparate areas to answer a simple question What will make eLearning have as much impact as popular culture Renaissance eLearning is the answer It has everything you need to infuse eLearning with the same magnetism and addictive powers of the typical video game song movie or other form of entertainment With this book you ll learn How to make emotion and passion as important to eLearning as cognition and intellect How and why to empower learners to take charge of their own experience How to get buy in from stakeholders for alternative and higher return on investment programs How to apply the same principles and techniques including narrative and visual design used by masters over the centuries to grab attention foster learning and have a lasting impact on participants How to get the research and information you need without relying on self proclaimed gurus and exorbitantly priced analysts How to find and work with the affordable creative talent needed to make your plans a reality Your Aching Back Augustus A.
