A Balanced Epistemological Orientation for the Social Sciences Charles F. Gattone, 2020-12-08 A Balanced Epistemological Orientation for the Social Sciences challenges social researchers to rethink the epistemological assumptions grounding their work It reviews the strengths and weaknesses of four salient epistemological orientations in the field positivism relativism interpretivism and intersubjectivism to identify the characteristics of a theoretically informed epistemology for social science Relying on such an epistemology means seeking a deeper understanding of the social world without losing sight of the constructed nature of one's conceptual frames It involves adopting a reflexive position with regard to the norms and traditions in one's area of specialization and in the field as a whole Epistemologically balanced social research is neither the dispassionate gathering of factual information nor the elaboration of universal assessments formed on the basis of armchair speculation It involves engaging in inquiry in an independent manner and being aware of the perspectival character of the claims being made in the attempt to shed new light on social phenomena The caliber of social science can be elevated when researchers recognize the symbolic nature of their work and the significance of their conclusions in the larger social order The Social Sciences: Methodology And Perspectives

Kundu,2009-09 Handbook of the Sociology of Mental Health Carol S. Aneshensel,Jo C. Phelan,Alex Bierman,2012-07-16

This second edition of the Handbook of the Sociology of Mental Health features theory driven reviews of recent research with a comprehensive approach to the investigation of the ways in which society shapes the mental health of its members and the lives of those who have been diagnosed as having a mental illness The award winning Handbook is distinctive in its focus on how the organization and functioning of society influences the occurrence of mental disorder and its consequences A core issue that runs throughout the text concerns the differential distribution of mental illness across various social strata defined by status characteristics such as gender race ethnicity socioeconomic status and age The contributions to this volume shed light on the social cultural and economic factors that explain why some social groups have an elevated risk of disorder They also address the social repercussions of mental disorder for individuals including stigmatization within the larger society and for their families and social networks The second edition of this seminal volume includes substantial updates to previous chapters as well as seven new chapters on The Individual's Experience of Mental Illness The Medicalization of Mental Illness Age Aging and Mental Health Religion and Mental Health Neighborhoods and Mental Health Mental Health and the Law and Public Beliefs about Mental Illness Encyclopedia of Technological Hazards and Disasters in the Social Sciences Duane A.
