Perspectives on Mammalian Cell Death C. S. Potten, 1987 This volume covers the wide range of approaches to and definitions of cell death as explored by scientists in different disciplines There is no single definition of cell death that can be accepted and used by all biologists yet it is clear that understanding how and why cells die is crucial to understanding many biological and pathological processes The thirteen chapters written by scientists involved in various disciplines bring together the experimental approaches and most up to date concepts important to different biological disciplines providing an insight into the common ground and fundamental principles     Programmed Cell Death Martin Lavin, Diane Watters, 1993-12-08 Only recently have the cellular and molecular aspects of cell suicide or perhaps euthanasia been investigated From a September 1992 symposium in Brisbane 26 papers report advances in the biochemical mechanisms DNA fragmentation genetic regulation and apoptosis in the immune system and in cancer Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR     Neuronal Cell Death and Repair A.
