Perspectives on Global Culture Ramaswami Harindranath,2006-06 Publisher description IUU Fishing - Illegal, Unreported and Unregulated. A critical reflection on different approaches to combating these acts and their effectiveness ,2024-04-03 Essay from the year 2023 in the subject Law Miscellaneous grade 2 0 G teborg University Rechtswissenschaften course Maritime Environmental Law language English abstract The impact of Illegal Unreported and Unregulated fishing shortly IUU fishing has become an increased significance these days The global community has already reached a critical point when it comes to global fish stocks As of 2014 almost 30 % of the global fish stocks are considered to be in an overfished condition according to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization FAO 2018 the estimated number already increased up to 33 1 % This emphasizes the urgency of actions combating IUU fishing Since the 1990s IUU fishing is a further growing issue for the community of international fisheries and thus this behaviour is not a new issue in marine capture fisheries According to estimations the total value of current IUU fishing worldwide is between 10 bn and 23 5 bn annually which is a total amount between 11 and 26 million tonnes of fish The first appearance of this term can be dated on 1997 to the 16th annual meeting of the Commission for the Conservation of Antarctic Marine Living Resources CCAMLR The fisheries sector developed more and more in a commercial direction and thus got dominated by economic interests By fading out all the problems and consequences of IUU fishing large companies only focus on expanding their profit This leads to different problems especially regarding to the environment One of the main problems is to extinguish certain fish stocks The key word of this issue is biodiversity which plays a large role in this context On a scientific view there is a specific level which sets the optimum for reproduction of fish stocks Overfishing means hereby that the reproduction is limited and in the worst case it can lead to completely losing types of fish Not to overextend a certain amount of fishing it is important to have control entities which sets the level of fishing to reach this optimum point The challenge now is that unreported fishing cannot be taken into account of those calculations how much fishing can be practiced so that it is very difficult to estimate the truly size of the fish stock Unreported fishing thus leads because of bypassing those control entities to many problems This challenges the whole system because it gets less concrete

Additionally unregulated fishing itself can wipe out a species of fish or at least limit the reproduction drastically
